

State Bank Prepares For Home Festival

The State Bank of Antioch's fifth annual Home Improvement Fair will move to the Antioch VFW Hall on North Ave. for the two day exhibit on Friday, March 20 from 4 to 8 p.m. and on Saturday, March 21, from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m.

"We had great success for four years with the fair on our bank premises," said Randy Miles, president, "but it was increasingly apparent to us that our expanding mortgage and trust departments would require us to select a new fair site for 1987."

The bank sponsored event at the new location will again offer consumers the opportunity to meet with area contractors and home professionals with a wider selection of exhibits and products, in the spacious, one-floor VFW hall.

As in past years, State Bank lending officers will be on hand during the fair hours to offer financing information and assistance.

All visitors to the fair will have the opportunity to register for cash door prizes of $1,000, $500, and $200 on home improvement projects, and participate in a random drawing for miscellaneous quality tools.

"The VFW Hall location is the ideal fair alternative for us," said Walter Jaszowski, vice president. "The floor space gives our exhibitors greater freedom, and our refreshment area will be expanded in the hospitality room. We have received excellent cooperation from VFW officials for this event."

Committee members Ken Wermerling, assistant vice president, and Florence Babusek, marketing officer, are assisting in the fair's development.

"We have every opportunity for our biggest and best fair," said Babusek, "and putting consumers together with local, dependable professionals makes all the extra effort worthwhile."

Conferences Coming Soon

Parent-teacher conferences will be held Thursday, March 19, at Antioch Upper Grade School. Teacher inservice day will follow on Friday, March 20.

The SRA achievement tests will be taken by students on Tuesday, Wednesday, and Thursday, April 21-23. The administration recommends that any doctor, dental, or other authorized absences be scheduled at a different time to assure that all students in grades 6, 7 and 8 are present for these tests.

Parents have been encouraged to check their student's report cards carefully and request conferences with teachers. The report cards will be sent home with each student the previous Monday, March 16.

Third quarter parent-teacher conferences are very important in that students still have enough time to improve their grades with increased effort before the school year ends.

Parent communication with the teachers is essential at this time to guarantee that the student is doing everything possible to learn and thus earn the highest grade possible.

Start Emmons Teacher Contract Negotiations

The Emmons Grade School Board negotiations committee and the Emmons Teachers Council (ETC) held their first meeting Tuesday, Feb. 24, at 6 p.m. at the school to present the teachers proposals to the board for contract negotiations. The ETC is affiliated with the International Federation of Teachers (IFT).

The Dist. 33 school board committee members are Jan Ranney, board secretary, and Claire DeMartini. The teachers council consists of Beverly Kramer, president of the ETC-IFT; Heidi Wennstrom, Cathy Urzedowski, and Debbie Beno.

Everyone Had A Chair In Antioch Boardroom

Everyone had a chair when a large audience gathered for the Antioch Village Board meeting Monday night, and there was even room for more in the new council chambers.

This provided the citizens a pleasant contrast over previous occasions when a large percentage had to stand crowded together by the doors. The expanded quarters also will be used for meetings of the zoning board and planning commission.

The village board approved a preliminary plan for the Planned Unit Development (PUD) project on Anita St. This plot plan details open space, trees over 10 inches in diameter, buffer areas, parking, and structures. Approval of the project includes rezoning the area from R-4 to R-5 for multiple unit apartment buildings.

Two other projects will be brought before the zoning board Wednesday night. These are the rezoning to R-5 for the Cunningham multiple unit project farther up on Anita, and for a car wash on Rte. 59.

The board also passed a special use ordinance, by a vote of three to two, authorizing the sale of beer and wine at the Vault restaurant and issued the license at the same fee as other liquor licenses. These all come up for renewal May 1.

In addition, they authorized removal of two parking meters to allow demolition of the building north of the Vault. This will be made into a parking lot.

As a solution of the continuing dog problem in the village, the board appointed Donald McGrain as animal warden, and authorized purchase of needed equipment. McGrain is an employee of the village public works department.

The date for opening bids on proposed expansion of the Antioch sewer plant was changed to April 14 at 2 p.m. in the village offices. This will permit receiving bids from a larger number of interested contractors, according to Marilyn Sterbenz, village clerk.

AARP To Present St. Patrick's Party

The Antioch Chapter no. 387 of the American Assn. of Retired Persons (AARP) will host a St. Patrick's Day Party on Tuesday, March 10, at the Antioch Senior Center.

The center is located at 817 Holbeck Dr., and the party will begin following the regular meeting.

A catered luncheon of either chicken or corn beef and cabbage has been arranged by Ruth Rynders; reservations are necessary.

A program featuring the All Star Kitchen Band and Singers, under the direction of Sam Lombardo, will also be presented.

Reservations will be available on March 10, for the Easter Luncheon to be held on Tuesday, April 14.

Those interested in doing volunteer work for the Antioch Chamber of Commerce should contact AARP Community Service Chairperson Viki Bock at (312) 395-1757 for further details.

'Jobs' Package The Crux

Three major cost issues affecting business expansions and job creation are under consideration during this session of the Illinois Legislature.

The "big threes" are taxes, workers' compensation and unemployment insurance.

Illinois has an opportunity this year to coordinate actions on these issues to create an attractively-priced package to encourage business investments in our state.

Illinois' current tax structure compares favorably with other states. However, the fallout from federal tax changes and slow state revenue growth is causing some politicians to say we need to re-examine our state tax system. The future of new jobs depends on how these issues are handled.

A study conducted for the Illinois Alliance for Economic Initiatives by Dr. Fred Gieritz of the University of Illinois compared our state's tax structure with other states. He concluded that we lined up well against most states and said our system shouldn't be changed.

Our state's workers' compensation system doesn't fare as well. It's an inefficient system which is unfair to employer and employees alike. It discourages investment in manufacturing jobs.

Administrative changes are badly needed within the Industrial Commission which now takes as long as four years to resolve a contested claim. This adds to legal costs and creates hassles for employers and employees. In addition, costly aspects of our W.C. law are a disincentive to companies considering expansion of Illinois operations.

Our state's unemployment insurance program is at a turning point. For the past several years, Illinois employers have been paying high U.I. taxes in order to repay a huge federal debt that reached a high of $2.5 billion in 1983. Federal penalties because of the unpaid debt have added to the cost problem.

The debt should be paid off by the end of 1987. But a rewrite of the state unemployment insurance act is now under way. The rewrite is of critical importance since we must make sure the savings from paying off the debt and eliminating federal penalties are realized by business in substantially lowered taxes.

The "big three" government-controlled business cost factors need to be viewed as a "jobs" package—not as separate, unrelated issues.

Well Spent

Where does all our tax money go? That familiar complaint usually triggers a shopping list of waste and folly in the expenditures of our hard-earned tax payments. Once in a while, though, a public expenditure surfaces that can be described as heart-warming and wise.

That's how we felt with the awarding of a $125,000 grant from the State of Illinois General Revenue Fund to the Private Industry Council of Lake County (PIC). The grant will go for retraining workers dismissed in the plant closing at the Electrometal Division of Fansteel in North Chicago and Midwest Transformer in Grayslake. The grant will cover the cost of tuition or reimbursement to firms giving hands-on training at plants or offices.

PIC is now in the process of rounding up former employees of the two companies to see if they are interested in retraining. We hope the program goes well. In our opinion, the taxes are being well-spent.

Betting Crackdown Certain To Get More Interesting

by BILL SCHROEDER

As far as police raids go, action by Sheriff Robert Babcox and his men was good fare for the daily press and 10 o'clock news. Lots of undercover work, simultaneous hits, a bevy of arrests and confiscation of gambling devices.

Now that the arrests have been made and some equipment has been impounded, where do we go from here? Babcox himself told reporters that the arrests are small fry. Equipment grabbed by deputies is stuff that the county licenses as amusement devices. Both Babcox and States Atty. Fred Foreman viewed the hit operation as the tip of an iceberg linked to organized crime. The middle men and the biggies didn't get burned.

Letters To The Editor:

False, Inaccurate

Editor:

I am writing in response to your Feb. 27 Steinke on Politics feature "Beyer to Have a Tough Re-election Battle."

A number of inaccuracies need to be identified and corrected. Our area is not populated exclusively by the "mink and manure" set, as you call us. We do have enclaves of the very rich as well as a horse farm here and there, but we also have our share of suburban sprawl. Can you blame us for preferring the "mink and manure?"

There is absolutely no truth to Steinke's statement that we have a bounty on Democrats. He should know better! Actually, there are so few real Democrats around here we like to have them around just to keep our competitive juices flowing. We have found that the mere mention of Teddy Kennedy, Jimmy Carter, or Harold Washington does more to bring out our Republican voters than does anything else we have ever tried. Why, when George McGovern was a student preacher in Dist. 6 from an area theological seminary the people of Diamond Lake were not known for their Republican tendencies. Since George had his say we even do very well in Diamond Lake.

Perhaps the most vicious falsehood of Steinke's that must be corrected occurs when he calls Dist. 6 Rep. Jerry Beyer a "GOP Regular" while identifying Dist. 6 Reps. Anderson, Hansen and Reindl as "associated with the independent Republican faction." Anderson, Hansen and Reindl each have served as elected Republican Precinct Committeeman for years. Our combined years of uninterrupted service is over 50 years; none of us has ever lost a race for precinct committeeman in what is a rock-ribbed Republican area. Last year Beyer lost his first bid to serve as a Republican precinct committeeman! Perhaps Steinke should look at the record before he labels the Republicans "Independents" and the mavericks the "GOP Regulars." The facts show Anderson, Hansen and Reindl as elected "Regular" organization Republicans. Beyer is not a "regular" elected Republican Precinct Committeeman. Beyer, though, is an active Republican like Anderson, Hansen, and Reindl.

The last glaring error is the report that "Bruce Hansen warned Beyer that he (Beyer) would have to spend $10,000 to secure his renomination in the 1988 primary." I would never say such a thing. Besides, a hotly contested race in "mink and manure" territory could easily run $40,000 to $60,000 without any guarantee of victory. I can assure your newspaper that any comments that Anderson, Hansen and Reindl might have made to Rep. Beyer were made in the spirit of cooperation and constructive teamwork, and not as Steinke says that "his three colleagues threatened him (Beyer) with political destruction unless he (Beyer) cooperated with them."

Plan For Future

Editor:

I am a concerned senior citizen living in the subdivision Avon on the Prairie.

I sincerely believe that the people in management of Heartland and Waste Management, Inc. have made a mistake in the proposed location of the incinerator and 160 acre landfill near the south edge of Grayslake.

Testimony under oath at the hearings before a special commission of the Lake County Board of Commissioners now going on five days per week has revealed these facts:

1. The incinerator will require over a half million gallons of water every 24 hours based on burning 1,000 tons a day.

2. The incinerator will pass into the air 436 pounds of particulate matter out the stack per day based on burning 1,000 tons of garbage every 24 hours.

3. 18 tons of volatile organic compounds will be passed out the stack each year based on burning 1,000 tons of garbage per day.

4. The application for the incinerator gives Waste Management the right to construct an incinerator to burn 2,500 tons per day if needed.

The Volund Incinerator brochure states that a similar design incinerator operated by Waste Management in Tampa, Fla. receives its required water from a nearby sewage treatment plant.

Common sense thinking dictates that the incinerator should be located near a sewage treatment plant where the incinerator can use the discharged treated sewage water.

The treated sewage water that should be used by the incinerator is a better alternative than the present practice of discharging it into Lake Michigan or the Des Plaines River where it is not needed or desired.

At some time in the future the Lake County Board could approve the operation of an incinerator with a much lower acceptable level of pollution.

Future landfills should be located in areas where residents use Lake Michigan water and also at a location that will not be a problem to Lake Michigan.

Development Panacea

Editor:

With the requested tax rate increase for the Fremont School of nearly 50 percent, for the Diamond Lake School of 15 percent and the prospect of a tax rate increase for a $2 million expansion of Mundelein High School, it must be apparent to nearly everyone that development does not necessarily pay for itself.

Tax lag is part of the problem of the schools. It can take up to two years for taxes to be received on a newly built and occupied house, but the impact on schools is felt as soon as the house is occupied.

The so-called "builder's donation" of money for schools covers only a small fraction of the tax lag. For example, the builder's donation for Mundelein High School for a $200,000 to $500,000 house is less than $150. The cost of education for one student for one year is over $4,000.

There are other less easily measured costs of development: of roads, police and fire protection and the added travel time to and from work because of traffic congestion.

The specter of a trailer park with 4,800 units, the equivalent of Park City, in Fremont Twp. is appalling to everyone yet it is only part of the mad rush to cover the natural landscape with buildings and pavement.

The "Open Space" proposal to be on the ballot for Fremont Twp. in April would make a small but significant contribution to holding out open space from development. Approval of the proposal by voters would authorize taxes sufficiently to buy developmental rights or title to 600 to 1,000 acres of open space and hold it for farming or recreational purposes.

The authority of Open Space could be used to prevent the abomination of a garbage dump and put a crimp in the plans for "Park City West."

Can we afford to do less than support the Open Space proposal?

Donald M. Smith
Mundelein

One of the positive things coming out of the raids is the revelation that there are a heck of a lot more "amusement devices" in use than the county has licensed. Which means that Lake County is getting cheated out of a vast amount of fee income.

County Board Chairman Jim LaBelle, who has responsibility for licensing, is conducting his own investigation of fee cheating with an undercover agent who has no ties to the sheriff's office or the state's attorney. It'll be interesting to see what he turns up. This column has been informed that it's standard operating procedure in the saloon business to license some but not all amusement devices.

The criminality involved in the sheriff's raids is one thing. The social impact is enormous. Anyone who knows how the amusement devices like the electronic poker and polo games are operated knows that if the "house" is using them for gambling purposes, a lot of money can change hands in a short time. Players have been known to sink a week's paycheck in a game machine at one sitting. Sheriff's undercover agents found that the payoffs were set pitifully low. Las Vegas is a Garden of Eden compared to the average Lake County saloon that "offers" payoffs on points scored or winning poker hands. Only 100 percent genuine chumps play the "amusement" games for money. But then the world is full of chumps.

At this point, we're betting (watch it, fella) that the second chapter of the betting crackdown will be more interesting than the first.

Arts Council To Honor John Lynn On March 8

John W. Lynn of Mundelein, founder and director of the Kirk Players, has been selected as the recipient of the Waukegan Area Arts Council (WAAC) 1987 Excellence in the Arts award.

Given annually to a Lake County individual in recognition of outstanding contributions to the arts in this county, the award will be presented at the WAAC "Arts are a Springboard" celebration to be held Sunday, March 8, at the Lake County Museum in the Lakewood Forest Preserve.

Lynn founded the Kirk Players, based in Mundelein, in 1966. His vision, talent and energies developed the Kirk Players into a community theatre group that currently produces four shows annually. Their next show, "Ten Little Indians," is March 6 and 7 at Mundelein High School.

Proceeds from every Kirk Players production benefit a local charity. Lynn explains the Kirk Players philosophy this way: "We see ourselves as a community theatre group. We produce shows because we love to do it. We want to have a good time. We want our audiences to have a good time. And we want our efforts to benefit worthy causes."

Each year the Kirk Players zero out their budget by distributing all proceeds to the area non-profit organizations that have co-sponsored that year's shows. Over the past 20 years, Kirk Players has in this manner distributed over $45,000 to 32 local charities.

Lynn's contributions to the artistic enrichment of Lake County goes beyond his Kirk Players activities. He serves as entertainment and pageant coordinator for the Mundelein Community Days Committee.

In 1981, he helped to rejuvenate the Queen Pageant at the Lake County Fair. Four years later he was instrumental in inaugurating the Lake County Fair amateur talent show.

He is especially proud that the 1986 Lake County junior talent winners, "The American Spirit," went on to win statewide honors in the Springfield competition.

For nine years he has directed the Kirk Players' contribution to Carmel High School's "Street Scenes." And for seven of the past 10 years he has directed Grant Community High School's spring musical. This year's production, "Grease," opens March 19.

Other community activities of Lynn include the Fremont Library Board, of which he is currently secretary. He is also a past president of Mundelein High School Board (Dist. 120.)

Lynn is employed as the training coordinator for the Sears Consumer Financial Corp. in Lincolnshire.

"Arts are a Springboard" will also feature tours of the Lake County Museum, music by the David Adler Cultural Center of Libertyville and the Jack Benny Center of Waukegan, and the announcement of $11,500 in reganting awards to 23 arts projects in Lake County.

Donation for the event is $10. Proceeds will support the local match portion of the 1988 WAAC reganting program, a program WAAC sponsors in conjunction with the Illinois Arts Council and the National Endowment for the Arts.

Tickets may be purchased at the door, or from any of the 28 WAAC member organization. Mail requests may be sent to WAAC, P.O. Box 8849, Waukegan, Ill., 60079.

Members of the WAAC include: American Assn. of University Women, Waukegan branch; American

Croatian Waukegan Tam-buritzans; Chain O'Lakes Cultural Arts Assn.; City of Waukegan; College of Lake County; Concert Call; David Adler Cultural Center; Genesee Theatre; Glass Dictionary; Jack Benny

Erwin Helfer, Katherine Davis

Blues, Boogie-Woogie Coming To Adler Center

Blues, boogie woogie and jazz will be the order of the evening when Katherine Davis and Erwin Helfer bring their roof-raising music to the David Adler Cultural Center for two shows, at 7:30 and 9:30 p.m. on Friday, March 6.

Davis won raves for her performances as Ma Rainey and Bessie Smith for the Kumba Theater, and has sung for the Montreal Jazz Festival and the Chicago Blues Festival. Helfer has played in the blues and jazz clubs of Chicago and New Orleans for 30 years, and accompanied the late Ma Rainey.

Opening both shows will be another powerful blues musician, guitarist Jim Brewer, who received the David Adler Cultural Center's Traditional Music Award in 1983 with the late Blind John Davis.

Concert admission is $5 for adults, $4.50 for members, $2 for senior citizens and children six to 12, and free for children under six.

The David Adler Cultural Center, 1700 N. Milwaukee Ave. in Libertyville, is a non-profit organization. For more information, call (312)367-0707.

Center Goes Square

It will be an evening for kicking up heels when the David Adler Cultural Center sponsors a clogging workshop and an old-time barn dance on Saturday, March 7.

The workshop will be led by Vickie Moss of the Heartland Old Time Dancers and will focus on the basics of clogging. It will begin at 7 p.m. and continue until 8 p.m., when the barn dance will start. The event will take place at the American Legion Hall, 715 N. Milwaukee Ave., Libertyville.

Lemongrass, a string band featuring Jenny Armstrong,

Valrie Mindel and Paul Tyler, will provide the music, and caller Paul Ford will walk everyone through all the steps, so that no experience is required.

Tuition for the clogging workshop is $7, which includes admission to the dance. Admission to the dance alone is $3 for adults, $2 for seniors and children six to 12, and free for children under six.

The David Adler Cultural Center, 1700 N. Milwaukee Ave. in Libertyville, is a non-profit organization. For information, call (312)367-0707.

Tough Schedule

The average queen bee lays her weight in eggs each day. That, no doubt, is why she needs so many worker bees.

Humuhumu

It's now of-FISH-all! Hawaii has chosen its state fish. Ranger Rick magazine reports that the Humuhumu won the most votes after an election rally at the Waikiki Aquarium. A figure in early Hawaiian legends, the Humuhumu is known for its strategy of swimming into a small crack and using a special spine to lock itself in place, preventing other fish from extracting and eating it. The Humuhumu will serve as state fish for five years, after which it must run for re-election.

'Calling All Squares'

The Country Squares invite all square dancers to their March 7 dance at St. Matthews Gym, Old McHenry Rd., Lake Zurich. The evening's activities will begin at 8 p.m. with a rounds workshop, and Jack Berg will call the squares from 8:30 to 11 p.m. For more information, call (312)223-8322 or (312)566-7056.

Chorus To Appear At Lincoln Center

The Waukegan Symphony Chorus, under the direction of Don Horisberger, will appear in New York City's Avery Fisher Hall at Lincoln Center for the Performing Arts on April 5, in a massive choral concert featuring distinguishing choruses from throughout the U.S.

The concert under the auspices of MidAmerica Productions, Inc., will feature the American Symphony Orchestra, and will be directed by Peter Tiboris, MPI's general director and principal conductor.

Being aware of the honor and opportunity presented to the volunteer community ensemble, Horisberger commented, "We should be extremely pleased to have a chorus of this stature in Waukegan which has been selected from many amateur and semi-professional ensembles. This chorus has grown both physically and artistically since its inception 10 years ago, and is now being recognized for its achievements."

Waukegan Symphony Chorus will perform on MPI's Masterworks Choral Series with five other ensembles, WSC being the largest. The combined 450-voice chorus will perform Mozart's "Great Mass in C Minor," a work also performed at the Genesee Theatre in February.

Also to be included in the program in New York will be Vaughan Williams' "Five Mystical Songs" and Bruckner's "Psalm 150."

Chorus members are very excited to have been invited to sing in a world-class performance hall with an outstanding New York orchestra. They feel that it is an opportunity for an extraordinary musical experience and an honor to be shared by all of Waukegan and the surrounding communities.

Horisberger concluded, "The community should be very proud of supporting an organization which is gaining national recognition."

The Waukegan Symphony Chorus is sponsored by the Waukegan Park Dist.'s Jack Benny Center for the Arts and is a member of the Waukegan Area Arts Council.

Tamburitzans Coming

From left, Annemarie Loncarich, Lillian Cvitkovic and Marie Dovin do Slovenian Song in season production of Duquesne University Tamburitzans' 50th anniversary year.

Tamburitzans Return To Lake County Stage

The Duquesne University Tamburitzans of Pittsburgh, Pa., now in their 50th year, and under the direction of Nicholas Jordanoff, will present their current concert production at Waukegan West High School, Brookside and McAree Rd., Waukegan at 7 p.m., Friday, March 13.

The Tamburitzans will appear here under the sponsorship of the Waukegan American Croatian Tamburitzans.

Over these past 50 years the Tamburitzans have portrayed the culture of the Eastern Europeans through music, dance and song, and they do it all in the colorful costumes of the people from the area in which they perform, which includes Croatian, Slovenian, Hungarian, Bulgarian, Slovak, and other ethnic groups.

They are as authentic as exhaustive research and dedication to their art can make them. At the same time they're innately American as baseball and apple pie.

In May they will begin their world tour, as good will ambassadors of the United States, in Hawaii and travel through 10 countries with the conclusion of the tour in Rome with a private audience with Pope John Paul II.

The 40 Tamburitzan performers are full-time students at Duquesne University in Pittsburgh. Candidates are chosen on the basis of academic achievement and proficiency as singers, dancers and/or instrumentalists.

This will be the home show for Lillian Cvitkovic. Lillian is a charter member of the Waukegan Croatian Tamburitzans and Croatian cultural center of North Chicago and a graduate of Carmel High School for Girls, Mundelein. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Peter Cvitkovic of Gurnee.

Admission tickets are priced at $7, and $5 for children 12 and under and seniors 65 and over. After the concert, friends are invited to enjoy the exciting sounds of the Tamburitzans at the Croatian Cultural Center, 11th and Sheridan Rd., North Chicago. Food and refreshments will be available.

This 50th Anniversary Edition of the Tamburitzans is an exciting spectacle of music, color and dance. Tickets will be available at the door; or by calling (312) 244-4493, (312) 336-6263, or (312) 336-0653.

County Artist To Have Show

Beginning on March 6 and running through the end of the month, Tim Flynn of Waukegan will be featured in a one-man show at the More By Far Gallery, 615 N. Wells St. in Chicago.

Flynn graduated from Waukegan East High School in 1980 and received his bachelor's degree in art from Western Illinois University in 1985. One of his wire sculptures was on display last fall at the juried "Recent Works '86" show at the College of Lake County.

In February, he was guest artist at the Avery Coonley School in Downers Grove, where he gave slide lectures, displayed his wire sculptures and demonstrated his techniques. Students participated by building "vehicles of the future" with wire and found objects.

The More By Far Gallery is open Tuesday through Saturday from 11 a.m. to 8 p.m. Phone (312) 664-7066.

Pig Out At Clinic 'Pig-Out'

The Robert R. McCormick University Clinics at the Chicago Medical School invites the public to a free "happy hour" event in the Rathskeller at University of Health Sciences/The Chicago Medical School from 4 to 6 p.m. on Wednesday, March 11, in conjunction with the American Cancer Society's "Great American Low-Fat Pig-Out."

The event is intended to alert the public, through free refreshments, menus and information, that many foods and meals are available today that are high in nutrition, food value and taste, while remaining low in cancer risk.

In addition to the foods and menus, brief and informative presentations will be made by staff members. This is the public's opportunity to have questions answered by "the experts" in an informal setting.

"We want as many people to come over as possible," said Clinics administrator Sharon Weinstein, "because the amount of misinformation that exists about the value and danger of food intake and preparation is overwhelming."

The Rathskeller and Clinics are at 3333 Green Bay Rd., North Chicago.

WINGS To Hold Spring Luncheon

The Lake County Women Interested Government (WINGS) will hold its annual spring meeting at Lambs' Farm, Rt. 176 at I-94, Libertyville on Saturday, March 7.

Informal networking will begin at 11:30 a.m. and lunch will be served at noon. On the program is a by-laws discussion, election of officers, future programs and dues payment.

State Sen. Adeline Geor-Karis and State Rep. Virginia Frederick will present an update on legislative happenings in Springfield.

WINGS is a non-partisan group that neither supports nor opposes candidates.

Board To Conduct Testing

The Department of Revenue will conduct an examination for prospective members of the Lake County Board of Review at 8:30 a.m., Wednesday, March 18.

The test for board of review members will be given at the Lake County Administration Building at 18 N. County St., Waukegan, in the 10th floor board room.

One Republican and one Democrat will be appointed by County Board Chairman James LaBelle. There may be additional members appointed from either party to serve, as the caseload of the board of review dictates. Any person passing the test will retain eligibility for a period of two years.

'Tis A Fine Day For A Jaunt

A horse drawn carriage supplied by Edwin L. Frederick of Grayslake will be back in action for Lake County's St. Patrick's Day parade at 2 p.m. Saturday, March 14, in downtown Waukegan. Mrs. Jessie O'Grady, a spritely 95, will be ready for the 1987 parade just as she was last year when this photo was taken. She will be parade marshal this year. Carriage is a 1913 Studebaker. Approximately 200 units are expected, including high school bands from around the county. Marchers and spectators are invited to Irish festival after parade at Immaculate Conception Church.

Extension Features Humor

An Emmy winning tv comedy writer for Bill Cosby, Bob Hope and other stars will be among four nationally-known humor writers teaching how to write and sell humor or use it in presentations in a class beginning on March 24 in Kenosha county and statewide.

Television comedy writer Gene Perret, syndicated columnist Dave Barry, stand-up comedian and joke writer Ron Dentinger, and Milwaukee Journal columnist Gerald Kloss will be featured in the University of Wisconsin-Madison workshop called, "Humor Writing".

The class will meet 6-7:50 p.m., Tuesdays, March 24 through April 28 in every county at meeting sites connected by UW-Extension's Educational Teleconference Network (ETN). In Kenosha County the ETN classroom is in the Social Services Building at 714-52nd St., Kenosha.

The class will feature humor writing exercises and time to try out humor on class members and the guest speakers. Topics will cover the mechanics of writing humor, how to analyze comedy and go beyond the obvious, how to get ideas, how to be creative and know when to stop, doing live and impromptu humor, working with an audience, writing for television, the marketplace for jokes and humor writing.

There is a fee of $46 for the course. For registration details, contact the Kenosha County University Extension Office at (414) 656-6793 or 1-800-472-8008.

Artists To Exhibit

During the month of March two talented painters will exhibit watercolors at the David Adler Cultural Center in Libertyville. Phil Austin and Lou Taylor are both well known locally as well as throughout the midwest.

Their works are primarily landscapes that give the viewer an opportunity to view nature and its beautiful effect on the world. Their mastery of the media compels one to remember all of the scenes in life that are "picture perfect."

Arctic City

Fairbanks, Alaska is the closest city in North America to the arctic circle.

Kirks' 'Indians' Will Attack On March 6

Mundelein High School English theater teacher and veteran Kirk Player, Jon Leslie Lynn will direct the Kirk Players in Agatha Christie's classic suspense drama, "Ten Little Indians" on March 6 and 7. It will be only the third time in their 20-year history that someone other than their founder-director has directed one of their subscription series shows.

Although an experienced high school director, having directed plays and musicals at both Wauconda and Mundelein, and had assisted his dad at Grant High School in Fox Lake, and on several Player productions, Lynn will direct his first community theater show. Among the largely veteran cast members will be the senior Lynn, "put through his paces" by the younger generation.

"Ten Little Indians" refers to the cluster of statuettes in a country house on an island and the nursery rhyme telling how each little Indian met his death-until there were none. To this queer place, eight assorted guests are invited by a mysterious host. Tension mounts when an unknown voice accuses everyone present, including the two house servants, of murder-not the kind that can be punished by the courts, but murder just the same.

The guests include the adventurous Captain Lombard (Tom Schrimpf), the secretary (Wendi Lynn), the detective (Hill Carter), the Doctor (Bill Phillips), the Spinster (Carol Marie Fischesser), the eminent Judge (John W. Lynn), the retired General (Jessee Becker) and the playboy (Russ Slade).

Carl Johnson and Mary Ann Rees play the domestics and Greg Fischesser, who also designed the set, plays the boatman who brings everyone to the island.

The excitement goes on Friday and Saturday, March 6 and 7, at Mundelein High School auditorium with an 8 p.m. curtain. All proceeds will be donated to Ho Tai Pup Tent 67 of the Military Order of the Cootie.

Clubs Win State Grant

The Northeastern Illinois Assn. of Snowmobile Clubs and the McHenry County Snowmobile Assn. has received a $46,845 grant from the Illinois Dept. of Conservation (DOC). The money will be used to purchase a Tucker Sno-Cat and a Trailmaster trail groomer to groom the approximately 500 miles of trails the groups maintain in Lake and McHenry Counties.

The money comes from the Snowmobile Trail Establishment Fund, a state program that uses snowmobile registration fees and provides up to 100 percent reimbursement. The program supports not-for-profit snowmobile clubs in the establishment of trails.

Geo-Karis Doesn't Want To Mix 'Wet' With 'Dry'

Sen. Adeline J. Geo-Karis (R-Zion) doesn't want any automatic annexations of unincorporated land into municipalities if they will bring liquor sales into "dry" communities.

She has introduced legislation (SB 66) in the Illinois Senate to keep "wet" unincorporated areas that are encircled by city boundaries from being automatically assimilated, if they would bring along establishments serving or selling alcoholic beverages.

"Under legislation approved last year (HB 1467), land parcels completely surrounded by a city with co-terminous township boundaries are to be annexed without referenda," Sen. Geo-Karis explained. "Co-terminous boundaries means that the boundaries of a particular city are the same as the boundaries of the township where it is located. HB 1467 was intended to simplify "hole in the doughnut" annexation, not to force traditionally "dry" towns to accept "wet" area.

"For example, my hometown of Zion, which does have co-terminous boundaries with Zion Twp., has been "dry" for 80 years, and our boundaries now surround an area with two liquor establishments," she said. "We don't want such places in our city limits, and my bill would protect Zion and other communities facing this problem."

Sen. Geo-Karis' legislation would prevent automatic annexations in such cases and would only permit annexations if they are accepted by the corporate authority in a council vote. The bill also provides for later disconnection of any "wet" area that might be automatically incorporated under the new law before her legislation can take effect.

Your New Local Calling Area

Beginning in March, all calls within the area shown on the map below will cost only one message unit (about 5 cents during the day), regardless of how long you talk. This includes all calls to phone numbers which begin with the listed prefixes.

So watch your mail.

In March, your new local calling plan will be introduced for Northeastern Illinois. It's a pay-only-for-what-you-use plan, and it means changes in what most customers pay for local calls.

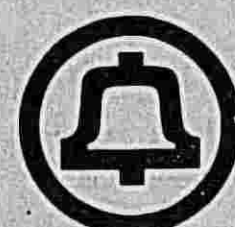

Before the plan takes effect, we want to show you how it may change your phone bill.

So during the next few weeks, we'll send you a special mailing which includes a personalized comparison of your local calling charges. You'll see the old charges for the last few months, and what the charges would be, for those same calls, under the new plan.

Here are the actual charges for calls during one month.

Here are what the charges would have been, for the same calls, using the new plan.

This map indicates the new local calling area for this customer. Calls within your local calling area, made from your home phone, are only a single unit.

Antioch Resident Wins Truck At Disney World

Michelle Resetar of Antioch was the lucky winner of a new Chevrolet truck during her visit to the Walt Disney World entertainment center in Florida.

During its 15th anniversary celebrations, Disney World is giving away a new car or truck daily. Resetar drew the lucky ticket for the new truck as she passed through the entrance turnstyle on her visit.

Resetar's disbelief at winning soon gave way to joy as she finally realized that she had won the vehicle. Resetar expects to pick up her truck within the week.

Spadefoot Burial

When the rains come to the southern Arizona desert each year, spadefoot toads emerge from below the ground. According to National Wildlife magazine, these desert toads mate at night and lay their eggs near pools of water. As the water begins to recede, the tadpoles hatch and mature. The spadefoot toads then resort to voluntary burial. There they will remain—buried alive—until new rains come to the desert the following year.

Resetar is employed as a decorator for Edward H. Ruff and Assoc. of Northfield. She also works in Antioch, as she is a certified technician with Pest Control Services of Northbrook and Antioch.

Dist. 1 To See Battle For County Board Seat

by JOHN STEINKE
(Political Columnist)

The 24-member Lake County Board is polarized between the Norm Geary-Mike Graham Independent Republicans and the Bob Neal-Micky Babcox party regulars. Last December, the party regulars re-elected Jim LaBelle of Zion to the county board chairmanship. Polarization, confrontation, and divisiveness has characterized LaBelle's reign in office.

The Lake County Board is divided into six districts with four representatives each. County Board Dist. 1 includes Deerfield and West Deerfield Twp., along with the southern third of Shields Twp. and the eastern portion of Vernon Twp. Dist. 1 Reps. Deloris Axelrod of Highland Park and Donald Strenger of Lake Forest are expected to seek re-election in the 1988 Republican primary. Both Strenger and Axelrod are associated with the party regulars.

However, reports are circulating that Deerfield Twp. Supervisor Robert E. Moroney of Highland Park may field a county board candidacy in next year's election. The highly respected and popular Moroney hasn't finalized a decision on his political future. Sources close to Moroney report that he won't run for the county board unless he believes that he can still fulfill his township supervisor responsibilities and attend to his burgeoning insurance business as well. In addition, Moroney has been a close political associate of incumbent Don Strenger. He doesn't want to jeopardize Strenger's re-election prospects.

In all likelihood, a Moroney candidacy would endanger Deloris Axelrod's reelection chances. Reportedly, Axelrod's county board colleagues privately refer to her as "the flake." Allegedly, Dist. 2 representative John Balen of Waukegan calls her "Kellogg's." A prominent GOP conservative claims that "her mind and her mouth are ahead of everybody else." An influential newspaper publisher has described Mrs. Axelrod "as the Donna-Mae Litwiler of the shoreline."

Letters To The Editor:

Opposes Mall

Editor,
I strongly oppose the Walgreen's Shopping Center which has been proposed for the site at Rtes. 173 and 83. This property is presently zoned residential and does not seem suitable for a development of this nature. The proposed complex would run directly behind many homes along Harden and Victoria Sts. Numerous problems could arise in having a busy shopping center so close to an established residential section of town. There has already been an increase in traffic resulting from other new developments at the corners of Rtes. 173 and 83 and more is expected when the proposed motel and apartment complex along Rte. 173 are completed. The added traffic and congestion created by a shopping center would certainly have an adverse effect on our neighborhoods. Growth and progress are inevitable and, in many cases, advantageous. But growth should be carefully planned and progress should lead toward more desirable effects, not detrimental ones.

Heather Menzer
Antioch

For Mall

Editor,
I'd also love to know who supports the stores of Antioch! I certainly do not and will not! Who is standing in the way of Antioch's progress? Who is forcing Antioch's own residents to spend their money elsewhere? Do these people think by keeping malls from going up they will eventually get me to shop in the over-priced stores in town? If they do, they are wrong. My family lives on a limited budget. This budget is what tells me where to shop, not the greedy shopowners of downtown Antioch.

I agree with the concerned shopper whose letter appeared a few weeks ago. We need more variety of shopping in Antioch. I think malls on the outskirts may be the answer, especially if these malls feature products not presently available in Antioch.

I, too, would be in favor of a discount chain store coming to this town. The town of Round Lake has two of them. Don't our own residents deserve bargain shopping closer to home?

Lorraine Mitchell
Antioch

Open Doors

Editor,
I agree wholeheartedly with the "Concerned Shopper" who wrote to the Antioch News-Reporter in February.

I have lived in Antioch for 10 years. I, too, have noticed the almost constant lack of shoppers in most of downtown Antioch's high-priced shops. The grocery stores, hardware stores, restaurants, etc. have a steady stream of customers. However the clothing stores and specialty shops often look deserted.

I, too, take most of my shopping needs elsewhere, for not only better prices but more variety. My circle of friends and acquaintances is quite large and they also go elsewhere.

So, Antioch, wake up and smell the coffee! Malls on the outskirts of town will definitely bring monies back to Antioch if the malls offer variety plus bargains.

I am also drafting a letter to the Chamber of Commerce stating my personal views on this topic and I urge others to do likewise. I think it is time for Antioch to open its doors and let in more businesses.

I would love to see not only a decent mall offering a variety of stores, but a K-Mart, Venture, Zayre or Shopko established in town. It would not only keep our shoppers home, it would also attract shoppers from bordering towns.

HMO's Complicate Medical Choices

A virtual barrage of newsprint and tv has focused on medical care and its cost. Although the traditional fee-for-service has increased health and length of life, other methods are being explored. In the traditional way you chose your doctor by recommendation or because your family or friends went to him. He took care of you and you paid him. If you didn't like the service, the cost, or even his personality, you went elsewhere. This method continues to serve the vast majority of our people.

Medical usings

By Leo Tannenbaum, M.D.

HMOs, the method getting the most public attention, will be compared now with traditional fee-for-service and with the different kinds or varieties that are being offered. All HMOs (Health Maintenance Organizations) are prepaid plans. Some are organized as IPAs (Independent Physicians Associations), working in individual offices, some are PPOs (Preferred Physicians Organizations). You sign a contract, usually for a year, for a very carefully proscribed list of services that the HMO will cover.

Here, there is a striking similarity to the story of the three blind men feeling different parts of an elephant. One calls it a wall. One calls it a snake. One calls it a tree. To complicate matters, in Illinois there has been a jump from eight HMOs to 26, either in action or ready to go, all in about two years. Since we have more needs than the single-illness blind men story, we are called upon to evaluate more than just an elephant and from more than one point of view.

You're going shopping and need comparisons. Assume the guise of a judge at a skating or gymnastic match and using definite rules you could rate a doctor or a group from one to 10. Let's call the comparisons "profiles" and here are some we could use, providing you ask questions and get the information.

- 1) Anything you know or can learn about the group;
- 2) If there is a written contract how it is administered;
- 3) Costs;
- 4) Rapport, friendliness, see same doctor;
- 5) Experience, continual upgrading of personnel.

You can rate one to 10 if these seem of equal importance to you. The total could be a 45 out of 50 (90 percent). If you believe one profile is more important than the rest, rate that one from one to 20. When you total remember its proportionately upgraded to a number one of 60 instead of out of 50.

To get the hang of it, we'll take a fictional doctor and rate him. He might get 43 out of 50 (86 percent) if all are weighted equally. If cost is more important he may rate 50 out of 60 (71 percent). If health concerns rate highest, he may rate 55 out of 60 (91.7 percent) if he's caring, 45 out of 60 (75 percent) if he's not. It's not as hard as checking out at the supermarket.

Consider HMOs. To score them takes more patience on your part because there are many plans and you as an individual or family have specific needs.

A profile should include the following considerations:

a) Well known? Read the brochure and ask questions. The well known ones have a track record and may score high or low by what is learned. If they are new in the area and have no track record, their score must be low no matter who the jockey is (physician or group) or the tout (insurance industry, tv, one's employer, a hospital).

b) The term "medically necessary" may be fair or not, and rate any place depending on how it is applied. If used appropriately this profile may rate an eight to 10. If it is used too many times, to say "not medically necessary" the HMO may be acting as a "gatekeeper." This is a new word that has crept into the medical vocabulary. It means their role is seen as one in which the doctor must keep hospital admissions down so costs will be less.

c) At a seminar, HMO attorneys were cautioned to adopt the attitude of non-responsibility if a malpractice suit resulted. They were to act as the marriage broker. After all it's not the broker's fault if the couple breaks up. Instead they were to offer to pay for care by another doctor of the patient's choice if the HMO would be held blameless and meanwhile the doctor working for the HMO could be sued. Even worse some states are so anxious to promote HMOs that about 12 already have, or are about to, pass laws holding them blameless in litigation! If the state is doing this, one should ask for hearings and if the HMOs prevail shun them because it may take litigation to establish who is responsible for care.

d) Choice of one's own doctor or hospital. Rates a great eight to 10 if one's own doctor joins that HMO—at least then the person knows what goes on in the office. He will be bound by the HMO's rules from then on, so find out if this involves "gatekeeping." Be wary if they say choice of your own doctor and then give you a list of their own physicians and that's your choice. These are frequently PPOs sponsored by hospitals. Here the Preferred Physician Organization means one of the hospital's doctors. He is the one preferred by the hospital thus bringing his patients' business to it. From tv people are led to the conclusion that their doctors are somehow anointed and preferred by all. Again, it's OK if one goes to that doctor and that hospital. One knows what he is getting. But the person is bound by this HMO's rules which didn't enter the picture until he joined.

e) Most HMOs are liberal for outpatient work. Both inpatient and outpatient care, if surgical, may require a second opinion. Gradually all hospital insurance is requiring this. The kinds of surgery paid for is gradually being limited by all kinds of plans, not only HMOs. One may be allowed $25 for a visit to the outpatient department as an HMO participant when using that department as one's doctor.

Are Auto Insurance Rate Hikes Reasonable?

During the last several years, auto insurance rates have climbed steeply, jumping 12 percent in 1986 alone. Insurance spokesmen say the increases are the result of higher costs for the industry, but consumer advocates see only an increase in greed—and insurance company profits.

According to Robert Schultz, spokesman for the Illinois Insurance Information Service, an industry-supported lobbying and information group, rates have increased because more people are filing accident claims, and because the claims are for larger amounts.

The Meyers Report

Economic forecaster Gary S. Meyers has been a lecturer and consultant to major financial institutions, government analysts, real estate developers and daily newspapers throughout the nation for the past 16 years. Readers are invited to submit comments and questions for possible use as subjects for future columns. Write Gary S. Meyers & Associates, Ltd., 20 W. Hubbard, Chicago, IL 60610.

Schultz said that insurance companies are facing increased hospital, auto repair and parts costs. "An average car costs between $8,000 and $10,000. However, taken separately, the parts cost between $35,000 and $40,000," he said.

"That's nonsense," countered consumer advocate Robert Hunter of the National Insurance Consumer Organization in Alexandria, Va. "Insurance profits are skyrocketing. The legal 'liability crisis' is a myth created by insurance companies."

Hunter contends that rising medical and auto repair costs "simply don't account for a 12 percent increase—maybe eight or nine percent at most." He points out that a 1986 study by the National Center for State Courts reports that the number of auto-related court cases in many states actually declined between 1978 and 1984.

Some insurance representatives deny that there have been any inordinate rate increases at all. Ron Arnold, vice president of public relations at State Farm, the nation's largest auto insurance company, said, "Except for 1985, we've had a stable increase of three to four percent per year between 1980 and 1986. Rates actually should be dropping now that less expensive, foreign replacement auto parts are coming onto the U.S. auto market."

However, recent statistics from the U.S. Bureau of Labor Statistics show much larger annual price rises, of 5.3 percent to 12 percent, in the industry as a whole. According to the statistics, the increases have far outpaced medical and repair costs.

The cost of medical care increased by 6.7 percent in 1985 and 7.7 percent in 1986. Hikes in automobile maintenance and repair costs for the same period were 3.3 percent and 3.7 percent. At the same time, hikes in insurance rates were 12 percent and 11.8 percent, respectively.

Although rising medical, legal and repair costs all affect what the consumer pays for auto insurance, one thing has not changed: factors such as location and driving record also have tremendous impact on the premium one pays.

Residents of urban, congested and crime-prone areas will have considerably higher premiums—often two to three times greater—than those who live in rural areas. In 1986, rates within the city limits of Chicago varied from $346 to $664. In nearby suburbs, rates averaged about $215 to $300.

Gender, age and driving record also determine premiums. Younger drivers and male drivers are responsible for a greater percentage of accidents, and thus pay higher rates. A poor driving record will increase premiums by as much as 10 to 15 percent, and may even make it difficult to obtain coverage. Even a speeding ticket can significantly raise your premium.

Owners of expensive cars, cars that are costly to repair or models that damage easily also pay higher rates.

Although industry and consumer advocates disagree about what causes rate increases, both sides agree that consumers can take steps to find more affordable auto insurance.

You can get general information on auto insurance by writing the Insurance Information Institute, 110 William St., New York, N.Y., 10038, phone (800)221-4954. The organization supported by the insurance industry, publishes a free booklet called "Auto Insurance Basics."

You can check an insurance company's reputation, through your state's department of insurance, which keeps track of complaints against insurance companies.

—Shop around. Insurance rates vary greatly from company to company. Talk to several insurance agents and make sure that, in addition to a good price, the company is offering good coverage.

—Take a higher deductible. Chances are that this will translate into real savings in a few years.

—Look for discounts. Many insurance companies offer them for insuring two or more cars, or for cars equipped with air bags, automatic seat belts or anti-theft devices.

—Be a careful driver. If you have a poor driving record when you get your insurance but then keep it clean for several years most companies will drop your rates. On the other hand, your rates will soar if you continue to drive carelessly.

Schedule Marina Program

How will a new marina affect the area? Four members of the Port Washington, Wis. business community will discuss the evolution of their marina and the positive results for local residents. Their visit and presentation will be sponsored by the Marina Committee of the Zion-Winthrop Harbor-Beach Park Chamber of Commerce. A program open to the public is planned for Thursday, March 5, at 7 p.m. at Horizon High School in the theater area; parking in south lot. Passive Exercise Makes Keeping Fit Painless

by SUSAN MONTGOMERY
Whoever said exercise could be painless?

That's the concept Libertyville resident Carolyn Brown is trying to get across to the those who end up leaving local health clubs and spas each day feeling more worn out than when they entered.

"There is an easier way to exercise, where you know you will still have energy when you leave," says Brown.

Those who enter Brown's new fitness center, Stauffer Figure, Exercise & Tanning Salon in Libertyville, will find a completely different approach to health and fitness.

"Here, you're not going to feel totally wiped out when you're done," she says.

The new technique Brown is talking about is called the Stauffer method, a passive exercise program developed by a physician, Dr. B.H. Stauffer during the 1940s.

Instead of putting the individual through a rigorous workout routine, the program relies on workout tables that do most of the work. The tables, which each address a specific muscle group, were devised for a member of Stauffer's family who had been a polio victim.

Although still relatively unknown, the Stauffer method is just now starting to "explode," Brown says. "Until a few years ago, there were about half a dozen salons in the country. It was still pretty much a secret because nobody really marketed the tables."

Brown discovered one of the salons in Princeton, Ill., back in 1969, while she was working for a chiropractor. After her move to Libertyville five years ago, Brown says she "always wanted to open a salon. I wanted to find a way to help those people who couldn't really exercise on their own."

The Stauffer method is particularly helpful to those with physical impairments, such as polio victims, arthritic patients and paraplegics, Brown notes. But it's also appealing to individuals who just want to tone, but not build up their muscles.

"The hard part of selling this concept is that everybody thinks you have to have pain when you exercise. We also want to get the word out to individuals who can't exercise on their own that this can help them."

The program's emphasis is on repetition, says Brown's daughter, Cindy, who manages the salon. Following the Stauffer plan, the 10-minute workout on each exercise table guarantees a two-inch loss after 26 sessions.

With the help of a diet consultant on staff, members can address individual needs, whether they want to tone muscles, reduce stress, or just keep up with regular exercise, she says.

"Whatever their goals are, we work with that and give them an idea of how many sessions they'll need," Cindy says.

Members are given proper instruction on how to use the machine, and receive attentive evaluation of their goals from staff. Carolyn cautions that while passive exercise is quickly gaining popularity, a few exercise table manufacturers have altered Stauffer's original concept and are producing a six-table method which changes the program's emphasis.

"Individuals should make sure they are given careful instructions on how to use the machines. They need to be used correctly," she advises.

Those who do follow the program's guidelines will see results, both women assert.

"This has got to be the easiest way to exercise," Cindy says.

The salon is open from 8 a.m. till 9 p.m. weekdays, and from 8 a.m. to 1 p.m. Saturdays. A 26-session membership is $195. For information, call (312) 367-7131. The Stauffer Figure, Exercise & Tanning Salon is located at 105 W. Rockland Rd., Libertyville.

Waste Management Promotes Officer

Wauconda resident James E. Koenig, 39, of Wauconda, has been appointed corporate vice president and treasurer of Waste Management, Inc. in Oak Brook.

Koenig, previously corporate staff vice president and assistant to the chief financial officer, will be responsible for financial services, investor relations and treasury and cash management.

After joining the firm in 1977, he has served in financial and operating management positions with the Waste Management International and Chemical Waste Management subsidiaries joining the corporate staff in 1984.

He holds a bachelor's degree in accounting and master's degree in business administration from the University of Illinois. He is a certified public accountant.

Koenig and his wife, Joyce, reside in Wauconda with their daughter, Tiffany.

Baxter-Travenol Lists Sales

Baxter Travenol Laboratories, Inc., which has a plant in Round Lake, has reported sales of $5.5 billion and income from continuing operations of $181 million for 1986. Earnings per common share from continuing operations were 64 cents. Sales, income and earnings per common share from continuing operations for 1985 were $2.3 billion, $118 million and 72 cents.

Net income for 1986 was $444 million or $1.70 per common share. Net income includes incomes of $38 million or 15 cents per common share from discontinued operations; a gain of $283 million, or $1.14 per common share, net of associated taxes, on the sale of the company's Flint unit; and an extraordinary expense of $58 million or 23 cents per common share for the early extinguishment of interest-rate hedge contracts. Net income and earnings per common share for 1985 were $137 million and 85 cents.

Results for 1986 reflect the acquisition of American Hospital Supply Corp. on Nov. 25, 1985. Results for 1985 have been restated for the sale of the company's Flint and American Critical Care units which have been accounted for as discontinued operations.

"In our first full year of combined activities following the merger we made significant strides toward integrating operations into one strongly focused company," said Vernon R. Loucks, Jr., president and chief executive officer.

"We undertook a thorough strategic review of our businesses and divested several that did not fit the long-term direction of the company. Proceeds from those sales helped to reduce debt to about 35 percent of capital from 47 percent a year ago," he said.

"Our outlook for 1987 remains positive. We expect income from continuing operations to benefit substantially from cost-savings resulting from the reorganization and streamlining of operations.

"We are on schedule with the merger, and remain strongly committed to achieving and maintaining leadership in the markets we serve," Loucks said.

By J.T. YURKO

Like most writers, Helene Hanff loved to read and didn't have much money to buy books. But her love affair with literature and — especially — rare, out-of-print books was not left unfulfilled, due to an advertisement in The Saturday Review of Literature. A London company by the name of Marks & Co., Antiquarian Booksellers, at 84 Charing Cross Road, seemed to offer to satisfy Hanff's literary appetite.

She wrote the company a letter inquiring about a few titles and pointing out that she hadn't a vast budget to spend on them. Much to her pleasure, she received one of the letters she requested some weeks later, along with a letter indicating that Marks & Co. would try to locate the other titles. The cost for this was well within Hanff's budget, and she was ecstatic.

What might have been an ordinary business transaction turned into a 20-year correspondence and relationship. Hanff went on to chronicle the two decades in a book that was subsequently trans-formed into a London stage play, a BBC teleplay, a Broad-way play, and now a feature film starring Anne Bancroft as Hanff and Anthony Hopkins as the polite British bookseller.

Common to all these incar-nations is the fact that the lead characters never meet. How to turn what was essen-tially a series of letters into a major motion picture is a ma-jor task. But Bancroft and Hopkins overcome these diffi-culties with ease and assur-ance. Bancroft makes a copy of an old book seem like gold from the pharaoh's tomb. More than that, her relation-ship with the people of Marks & Co., extends across geo-graphical, cultural and ethnic backgrounds and displays a foreign policy one wishes gov-ernmental leaders would adopt.

Director David Jones and screenwriter Hugh Whitmore don't tell us everything about the characters — just enough to present them clearly. Hop-kins and Bancroft are so adept at creating their char-acters that they seem like old friends to us, just as they came to seem to each other.

David Copperfield attempts an 'Escape from Alcatraz'

By Constance Pace

Celebrity TV specials are rare these days. But for magician David Copperfield, another special is just another sleight of hand trick. "Every year I have to top myself," he concedes, "but I always devise something."

David Copperfield

In CBS's "Kraft Salutes the Magic of David Copperfield IX: The Escape from Alcatraz," which airs Friday, March 13, Copperfield again attempts the seemingly impossible. But how impossible? This, after all, is the man who levitated over the Grand Canyon on a magic carpet, made the Statue of Liberty disappear (take that, David Wolper!) and walked through the Great Wall of China. Then there was the year he made a 7-ton jet disappear while it was surrounded by members of his audience.

"This is something that no one has ever done before, even though many have tried," says Copperfield, referring to the 34 prisoners who attempted to break out of the maximum security prison before it was shut down in 1962. All 34 were thwarted, either by prison guards or the icy waters of the bay.

Now, the prison that once housed Al Capone, Pretty Boy Floyd and Robert Stroud, the famous Birdman of Alcatraz, is a National Park. "Of course, I have to attempt to escape at night, because the National Park Service won't allow us to work during daytime when the island is filled with visitors," says Copperfield. He'll start the stunt straitjacketed and locked in a cell and will attempt to evade electronic surveillance devices, guard dogs and, of course, the sharks who are said to swim in the Bay.

Copperfield, a New Jersey native who first became interested in magic at the age of 12, says that his annual television specials are but a small respite during his working year, in which he usually spends nine months on the road. "I love traveling, and I love meeting people," he says. He says the hardest thing about performing TV magic is maintaining the audience's belief. "Because of cameras and technology, it's really hard for them to believe you're not tricking them," he says. "The challenging part for me is to think up an illusion, show them everything step by step on camera, and pull off the stunt even beyond that."

Replace Exterior Doors To Stop Wasting Energy

Replacing the front, side and back doors is growing as an improvement project because homeowners have learned the right kind of exterior doors can enhance the appearance of a home and save energy as well.

Installing new wood entries to stop energy waste, says the National Wood Window & Door Assn., isn't all that costly when you consider the saving in fuel costs that result from properly weatherstripped wood doors. Nor is installing doors a difficult job for a competent do-it-yourselfer. All it takes is a few hours with ordinary tools.

When it comes to energy efficiency, it is the weatherstripping, design of the threshold and the quality of the installation that most determine how good the door will be at saving energy, not the material the door is made of.

To minimize the possibility of a door's robbing a home of expensive heat, many wood door manufacturers now offer integrated entryway systems. These systems consist of the doors, frames, assembled sidelights and sills. All the components match and the entryway system is precision machined at the factory to assure a precise fit.

Wood doors are natural insulators. They retard the flow of heat to the outdoors and resist the formation of condensation on the inside surface of the door. Wood doors can be trimmed to fit the existing opening. Metal doors can't. This feature is important when replacing doors. Because they are wood, they will also accept virtually any finish. They can be painted to blend or contrast with exterior siding and trim. Or, they can be stained to bring out the rich, natural wood grain.

Styles range from traditional to contemporary.

Energy Efficient Roof

Aluminum roofing, such as Rustic Shingle, is known for its energy efficiency, fire protection, distinctive looks, and long-life durability. It is roofing choice of tens of thousands of homeowners across country.

With Planning, Paneling Can Be A Simple Success

Installing real wood paneling is not only a good investment and an exciting way to add decorative appeal to your home, it's a relatively easy project for the do-it-yourselfer, as well.

Proper planning and preparation of your paneling project is the key to success. Experts at Georgia-Pacific Corp., one of the country's largest manufacturers of prefinished wall paneling, offer the following tips to help you do a professional-looking and trouble-free job.

Before you install the first sheet of paneling, you need to do three things: Calculate the paneling required; condition the panels; and arrange the pattern.

Calculate: Begin by measuring the room and transferring those measurements to graph paper. If your room is 14 by 16 feet, and each one-quarter-inch square equals six inches, you'll end up with a seven-by-eight-inch rectangle. Indicate windows, doors and other structural elements.

Now, total all wall widths (60 perimeter feet) and divide by four feet (the width of one panel) and you'll obtain the number of panels needed (15). If your total wall width falls between two numbers, "round up" to the higher number.

Condition: After you've bought your paneling, store it in the room where it will be installed. If walls are freshly plastered, allow them to dry thoroughly before installing paneling. (However, Georgia-Pacific recommends only the use of plywood-backed panels on plaster walls, not the wood fiber based or mende panels.)

Arrange: The beauty of paneling lies in the natural variety of grain and color displayed by each individual panel. Before you begin to install your paneling, take a few minutes to stand the panels side-by-side around the walls of the room.

Now rearrange them to achieve the most pleasing balance of color and grain pattern, then number the back of each panel in sequence. Be sure to take notice also of the grooving pattern as you arrange the panels to make sure you have the sequence of patterns you desire.

These steps will help you get your paneling project done more easily and quickly. For more information, send $2 to Georgia-Pacific Corp. for "The Paneling Guide," Dept. SCW03, P.O. Box 48408, Atlanta, Ga., 30362.

Tips On Selecting The Right Windows

If you think of "pain" when buying new windows instead of "pane," there's a handy booklet that will cure your ills.

"What Homeowners Should Know About Windows" describes the many roles of windows, discusses the various framing materials available and tells how to maximize energy savings through the use of proper window selection and passive solar principles. Illustrations show the basic window styles—from double hung to picture units.

The benefits of vinyl-framed windows are also detailed, such as their outstanding insulating properties, condensation-resistance and low maintenance requirements.

For a free copy of the brochure, write to Vinyl Windows and Doors, Vinyl Building Products, Inc., Box ST, One Raritan Rd., Oakland, N.J., 07436.

Nature Cleaners

Urban pollution fighters are taking to the trees in their battle against dirty air, according to National Wildlife magazine. Recent research has demonstrated that some trees absorb huge amounts of pollutants. Red maple and white birch, for example, seem almost to thrive on sulfur dioxide, while white oaks are especially good at absorbing ozone.

Roofs Need A Thorough Inspection In Spring

Now that spring weather is almost here, the average homeowner is looking outside to find out where to sprinkle new grass seed and which bushes didn't survive the winter. That's fine, but at the end of winter, it is also time to look up and give your roof a thorough inspection to see how it fared.

"Winter can do some terrible things to your roof," said Bob Garrett, vice president of marketing for CertainTeed Corp.'s roofing group. "The first warm days of spring will give the homeowner a chance to make a roof inspection, and to see if reroofing will be necessary this season."

"One way to do a roof inspection is to call a roofing contractor, but if you know what to look for, the homeowner can get a pretty good idea if the roof has suffered winter damage," said Garrett.

If the roof is 15 years old or older, Garrett recommends an annual spring inspection.

"One of the most obvious signs of roof aging is to notice a few shingles in your lawn once the snows have melted. Heavy winds can blow off aging shingles and these should be replaced immediately," Garrett said.

There are other ways to check for roof failure, too, without ever getting on the roof. "Discoloration of ceilings or the roof decking as seen from inside the attic means water is already beginning to leak in when it rains or when the snow gradually melts," said Garrett. "This is a clear indication that immediate action is required on the roof to prevent structural damage to the home."

Another easily detectable sign of imminent failure occurs with the breakup of the weathering surface of the shingle. Whole pieces of asphalt with the granules still attached break off. Significant granule buildup in the gutters or as seen washing out of the downspouts when it rains is an indication that something is wrong and that the roof is aging, according to Garrett.

"Another method of inspection is to climb onto the roof and inspect for curling edges, cupped surfaces or variations in color between areas of the shingle on the roof," said Garrett. "The same observations can be made while standing safely on the ground, by using binoculars."

Garrett emphasizes that often winter storms can cause damage that may necessitate minor repairs and that reroofing is not always needed simply because some of these signs may be noticed. He cautioned homeowners to get at least two opinions if a roofing contractor says reroofing is necessary, and particularly if the roof is not at least 15 years old.

If reroofing becomes necessary, Garrett recommends that homeowners examine the latest designer shingles available on the market today which can add beauty, quality and value to the home at a reasonable price. CertainTeed's Horizon Shingle offers homeowners an extremely durable shingle with an attractive, deep textured look. It adds a truly distinctive finishing touch to a home, carries a 25-year warranty, and is available in a wide range of earthtone colors, carefully blended to complement any architectural style.

"Today, there are significant options available to homeowners to add a shingle to the roof that can bring out the true beauty in the home's exterior. Homeowners shouldn't think they must replace an old roof with the same color," Garrett emphasized.

To assist homeowners with the reroofing process, CertainTeed has a helpful booklet entitled, "Roofing... A Homeowner's Guide to Products, Procedures and Potential Problems." The brochure details how to detect a roof that's about to fail and answers commonly asked reroofing questions.

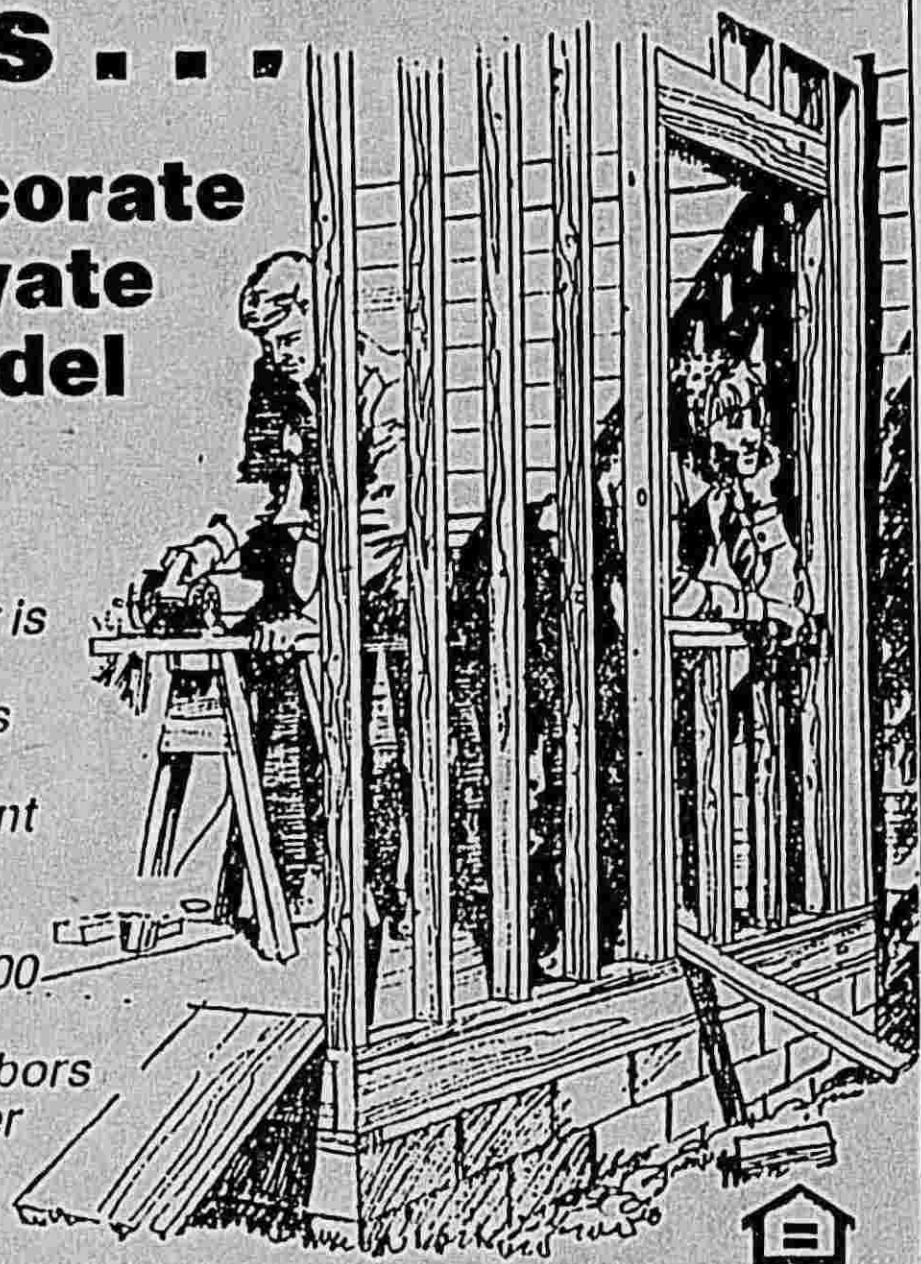

To order a free copy of the booklet, write to: CertainTeed Home Institute, Shelter Materials Group, P.O. Box 860-S, 0215-2A, Valley Forge, Pa., 19482. Four Simple Steps To Insulating The Garage

Over the past several years, millions of Americans have learned how easy it is to insulate their attics and crawl spaces and save on home cooling and heating costs. Many of these individuals have stopped insulating there, not realizing that most of the simple procedures used for attic and crawl space projects can be extended to garage walls. Several types of materials can be used to insulate garage walls, but fiber glass insulation is by far the most popular.

According to experts at the CertainTeed Home Institute, insulating garage walls can be done by the occasional do-it-yourselfer by following several easy procedures.

Before you begin your insulating job, you'll need work gloves, a hammer, common masonry nails, two-by-twos and two-by-fours, a serrated knife, a heavy duty staple gun, and CertainTeed's R-11 or R-13 (three-and-a-half inch) kraft-faced fiber glass batts or rolls.

Start the job by nailing bottom plates (two-by-twos) to the base of the walls with a hammer and special masonry nails. Then nail top plates (two-by-twos) to the joists of the subflooring above. Both bottom and top plates should be placed three-quarters of an inch out from the wall.

Next, using common nails, fasten the two-by-four studs to the top and bottom plates 16 or 24 inches apart (measured from the center of one stud to the center of the next.)

Then cut fiber glass insulation into sections the height of the wall. Press insulation between the studs with the facing towards the air conditioned area of the home and staple to the studs.

To finish the job, install gypsum board or paneling over the insulation and studs.

For more information about home insulation, write for the instructional brochure "How To Insulate," from CertainTeed Home Institute, P.O. Box 860, Valley Forge, Pa., 19482.

Prepare Surfaces Before Painting

Spring, for many homeowners, is the time to fix up and paint interior rooms. The weather makes for comfortable working conditions, you can keep windows open to minimize inhaling paint fumes and, by painting now, you'll be ready to sip iced tea on your shaded patio when the summer dog days arrive.

The key to a successful paint job is preparation. Do that portion of the job that requires attention before you ever open a paint can. Here are several professional stunts to help you do a lasting interior paint job.

Thoroughly clean all walls, ceilings, woodwork, trim, etc. to be painted. If painting over wallpaper, make sure all is securely fixed to the wall. If it isn't, either rent a steam machine and remove the paper, or apply Elmer's Wallcovering Repair Adhesive to loosened edges or tears so that it is flat to the wall.

At this time, also check the plasterboard or plaster walls for nicks or chips; fill any that you find with Elmer's Redi-Spax Spackling Compound. This compound is fast drying and sands very easily. Happily, no primer is required. You can cover all, including patched spots, with one coat of paint.

If you spot any nicks or gouges on any of the wood surfaces, use a water-based wood filler. It is easily workable and can be sanded so you can blend the patched area with the adjacent surface.

Rustic Shingle Solves Many Roofing Problems

Until now, roofing materials have been a never-ending source of problems for homeowners. They've worn out in 10 years or so, developed leaks due to deterioration, attracted heat, caused fires, and looked ugly. That's all over: Rustic Shingle aluminum roofing is here to stay.

The advantages of metal roofing have been known for years; the cap of the Washington Monument has been protected by aluminum since 1884. Rustic Shingle provides these same advantages yet its distinctive look of hand-split wood shakes makes any home into a show-stopper.

Protected by a 40-year prorated warranty, Rustic Shingle will not rust, peel, flake chip or split. The special two-coat baked acrylic enamel finish is continually tested to withstand the worst weather conditions.

Homeowners choose from eight colors for this distinctive roof, including an exclusive Weathered Wood Series. With colors ranging from Antique Brown to Weathered Cedar, every architectural style can be enhanced.

Because aluminum reflects from 87.5 to 94.5 percent of all radiant heat rays, common rooftop temperatures of 190 degrees are not passed into the home. Homeowners in Texas and other sunbelt states have turned to Rustic Shingles for many years to reduce air conditioning costs.

Cooling load reductions of up to 40 percent are achieved with this product. Additional savings take place in the winter when the aluminum reflects heat back into the home.

Rustic Shingle installs directly over most existing roofs, decreasing installation costs while also providing long-lasting watertight protection. Rustic Shingle also stands up to moderate hail and the product's deep texture prevents rains and hail from causing a noise problem.

Rustic Shingle can also not be ignited, so homes are protected against the rooftop fires which can destroy entire neighborhoods. Fire safety officials and insurance underwriters highly recommend Rustic Shingle, which carries a Class A UL fire rating.

The advantages of long-life, durability, fire safety, energy efficiency and distinctive looks provide the common-sense economy that has made this internationally-distributed product the roofing choice of tens of thousands of homeowners.

For a free booklet with more information on Rustic Shingle, write to Dept. S-7, Classic Products, Inc., P.O. Box 701, Piqua, Ohio, 45356.

Home Sellers Profit From Good Preparation

Today's housing market is the hottest in recent history. Mortgage rates are an eight-year low, and the Tax Reform Act of 1986 has made housing the last tax shelter readily available to consumers.

In response, hundreds of thousands of Americans are selling their homes so they can trade up to bigger, more expensive ones. Naturally, they want to get all they can from their property. Some factors, such as proper pricing, require research and perhaps some expertise from a broker; but one of the most important factors is simple: preparing the home so that it looks clean, well-kept and inviting.

Investing a few extra dollars in repairs and applying a little soap and elbow grease can add thousands of dollars to your selling price. How well your house is prepared can be the deciding factor in finding a buyer, especially if the buyer has little extra cash for repairs.

Clean your house thoroughly and keep it spotless during the period it is being shown, as if your mother-in-law were coming for a visit.

"Sometimes we must diplomatically tell a seller that his house is a sty," said Anita Rest, owner of Century 21-Wicker Realty, in Chicago. She said that buyers often equate a sloppy house with a poorly maintained house.

"We often suggest our clients use a professional cleaner. It is worth the investment to get the house sparkling clean. Dirty dishes, clutter on the stairs, toys on the floor often turn off a buyer," said Barbara Maren, a broker with Victor Company, a Boston-area realtor.

Also make sure your house is free of odors, especially if you own a pet. Realtors say that kitty-litter boxes, cigars and last night's dinner can affect a buyer's response to your house, creating an unshakably negative impression. A bowl of vinegar left in a room for several hours will help clear out unpleasant smells. Putting an apple or some vanilla in a warm oven will help create a homey, pleasant aroma for prospective buyers.

Cleaning your carpets also will help eliminate odors and spruce up your home's appearance. If your carpets are extremely worn and dirty, consider removing them, especially if there are attractive hardwood floors beneath.

Make your house as bright and spacious as possible. A crowded room with too much furniture will appear much smaller, so try to clear it out. Remove heavy drapes or items blocking the windows. Also, turn on all the lights when potential buyers are due.

"Light is simply more saleable," said Maren.

Make any necessary minor repairs such as fixing dripping faucets and loose shutters. Make sure that the heat and hot water are working properly.

"There are always little things that you've learned to live with—dirty windows, broken doorknobs—all of which hurt the sale," said Larry Knapp, president of Coldwell Banker Residential Real Estate, in the San Francisco area.

Trim bushes and shrubs, mow the lawn and clean up any leaves or litter that may have accumulated. A neat front yard free of weeds and debris will make that all-important first impression a good one.

It may be worthwhile to paint or wallpaper parts of your home. A small investment in repainting will often pay off. Also consider cleaning and painting the basement.

Treating the prospective buyer with consideration also will pay off. Whenever possible, try to accommodate buyers by allowing your house to be shown on short notice. The right buyer may be on a visit from another part of the country, trying to fit a lot of visits into a tight schedule.

"When you're selling your house you only need one buyer—the right buyer—and since you never know when they're going to turn up, you must be ready to show your house to everyone you can," said Knapp.

Realtors suggest that the owner not be present when the house is being shown. That way, "The buyer can speak freely and the broker can make suggestions without offending the seller," said Maren.

Also keep in mind a time frame for selling your house. A large or unique home may be on the market longer, since it is often more difficult to find the right buyer and price. In today's market, your house may sell within a week, but be prepared to show it for two to four months.

Home Inspection Useful When House Is For Sale

No savvy home buyer would dream of signing papers on a new house without checking for any hidden problems first. Smart home sellers can take advantage of this fact by having a professional home inspector thoroughly examine their house—before putting it up for sale.

A professional home inspection will reveal any weak spots in the house's physical structure (the roof, basement, foundation, walls and ceilings) or its electrical, plumbing, heating or cooling systems. Should any serious defects be uncovered, sellers can choose to have them repaired before approaching prospective buyers or to set a more realistic asking price.

In addition, the inspector's written report can be a persuasive sales tool, providing sellers with unbiased documentation of all of their home's good features. Purchasers will feel more confident in their decision to buy if they can know right away the present condition of the house, inside and out.

To make sure a house is evaluated objectively and expertly, home owners should seek an inspector who belongs to the American Society of Home Inspectors (ASHI). ASHI members must adhere to strict technical standards and ethical guidelines, thereby assuring their clients of the most accurate information possible about the condition of their house. The names of local ASHI inspectors may be obtained by contacting ASHI at 655 15th, SW, Suite 320, Washington, D.C., 20005.

Save On Energy

A breath of fresh air should be an invigorating, not exasperating, experience.

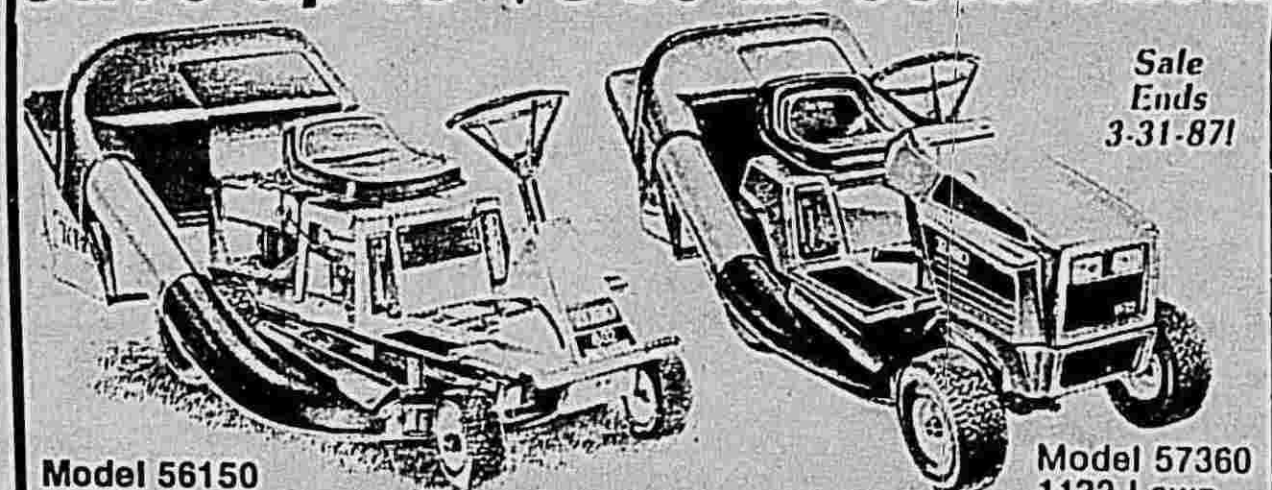

Windows that allow drafts to come through are a costly nuisance, not just in the winter months but also in the warmer seasons. The same leaky windows that allow heat to escape in the winter also provide a drain on air conditioning. Mechanical equipment must work harder to maintain a comfortable inside temperature and to compensate for the escaping cool air. Homeowners with inefficient windows suffer the consequences every time they pay their utility bills.

Storm windows help to reduce air infiltration in the winter, but usually need to be replaced with screens in the summer. A more convenient, attractive solution that will have even greater benefits in the long run is to replace old, inefficient windows with new energy-efficient units.

Vinyl-framed windows with insulating glass are enormously popular because many of them combine the best features of other window types without the drawbacks. Vinyl brand windows (the windows chosen for the Statue of Liberty restoration project) are excellent insulators, do not need to be painted and resist condensation. They do not corrode, blister or rot either.

Although some vinyl window producers offer limited styles and colors, Vinylite features virtually every type desired—from the traditional casements and double-hung styles to elegant bays and bows. The company also offers a choice of architectural bronze, woodgrain and almond-beige frames—in addition to the classic white.

Ceramic Tile Becoming A Favorite For Floors

Consumers like the look of ceramic tile so much that industry analysts expect its use to double by the end of this decade. According to a recent survey conducted by Builder magazine, more than three out of ten prospective homebuyers rated ceramic tile flooring as the most appealing feature in a new home.

The survey also showed that ceramic tile is the material of choice for kitchen counter tops, for walls in the bath and for floors in the kitchen, baths and entry foyers. These findings aren't difficult to understand, says the Tile Council of America, Inc., because today's American-made ceramic tile is available in a wide range of colors, textures, shapes, patterns and sizes.

Because of its versatility, homeowners are discovering its use in home improvement projects designed to increase the resale value of homes. Ceramic tile is extremely durable and is as easy to care for and economical as it is attractive. When compared with other materials in terms of its useful life, ceramic tile's longevity makes it a bargain.

Fire safety, a concern of most homeowners, is another benefit of ceramic tile. Other materials can char or burn. Some give off toxic fumes when they burn. Ceramic tile doesn't. Nor will ceramic tile dent, fade, rot, blister, warp or splinter.

When shopping for ceramic tile, choose the product carefully because it'll be around for a long time. Avoid choosing a color or style that you may get tired of. To get an idea of what's available in today's ceramic tile, visit the showrooms of manufacturers, dealers or distributors. Look them up in the Yellow Pages under "Tile, Ceramic."

Insulate And Ventilate To Reduce Summer Energy Costs

Were you one of the many homeowners concerned about the high cost of cooling your home last summer? If you were, there are two things you should be thinking about right now—proper insulation and adequate ventilation.

In the summer, heat can build up in attic spaces to as much as 150 degrees. This super-heated air can eventually penetrate through the ceiling of an underinsulated home warming the living area below. However, by insulating your attic to the appropriate levels for your geographic area, you'll reduce the amount of heat penetrating through the floors. Adequate ventilation will then help the remaining super-heated air in your attic to escape to the outside. The result is a home that uses less energy for air conditioning.

"Exact energy savings are hard to pinpoint because they'll vary by geographic region, but there's no doubt about it, a well insulated and ventilated home will use less energy to air condition and will help reduce energy costs for the homeowner," explains George Hoffman, vice president of marketing at CertainTeed Corp.

Interestingly, upgrading the insulation levels in the attic to help lower air conditioning bills is easy and not particularly time consuming.

Hoffman illustrates the simplicity of do-it-yourself attic insulation by pointing out that "the average size attic can easily be insulated by a man or woman in a single afternoon."

How do you learn how much attic insulation you should have? The answer is easily determined by the climate of the region in which you live, as well as by fuel costs in the area.

To determine the recommended optimum levels of insulation for your area, locate the zone (on the map) in which you live. Then use the R-value and corresponding insulation thickness to determine how much insulation your attic should have. The higher the R-value, the greater the insulating power. Remember that savings may vary.

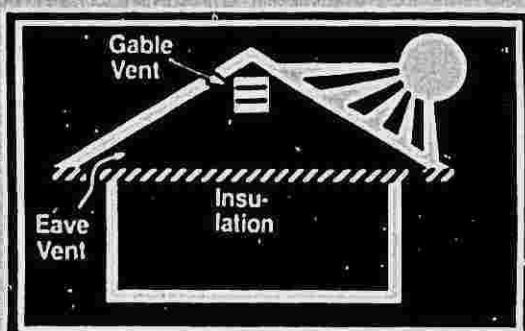

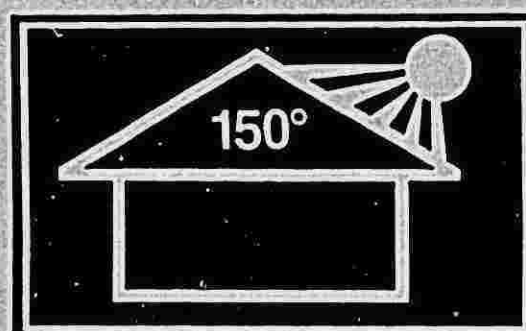

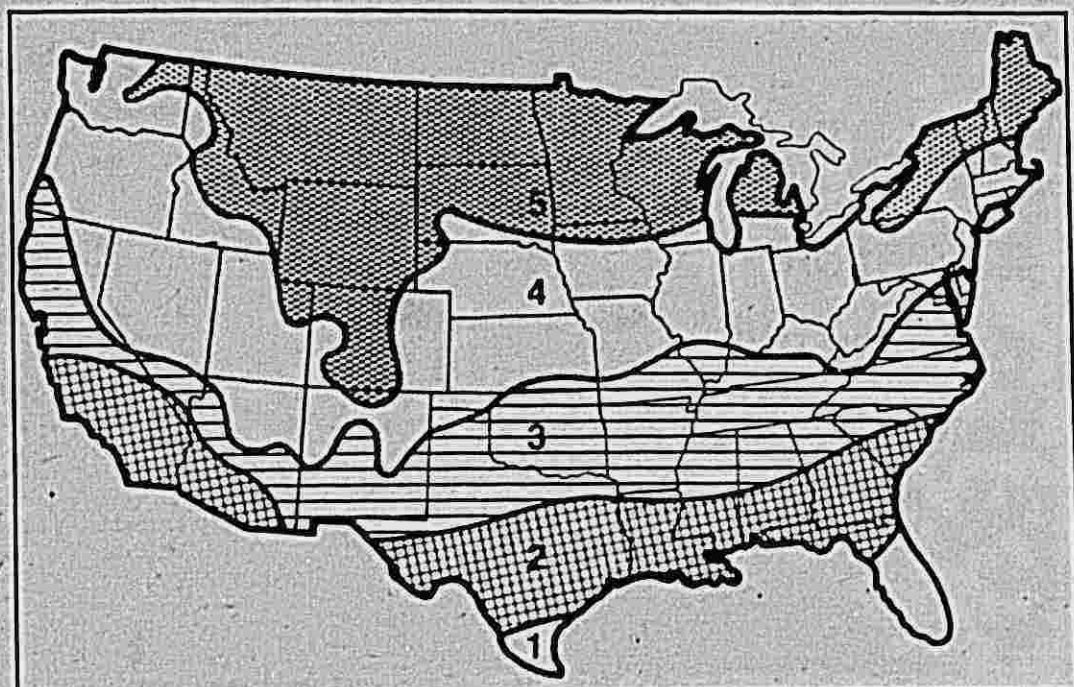

Zone 1: R-30 (10-inch insulation thickness)
Zone 2: R-30 (10-inch)
Zone 3: R-30 (10-inch)
Zone 4: R-38 (10-inch)
Zone 5: R-49 (16-inch)

The recommended R-values reflect data from the U.S. Dept. of Energy, HUD/FHA, and state and utility recommendations.

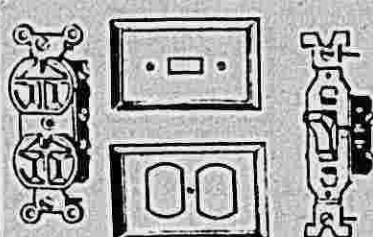

Ventilation works by allowing hot summer air to escape to the outside enabling the home to breathe and be more comfortable in periods of summer heat. In winter, ventilation helps remove moisture from within the house, so it doesn't condense in the attic.

There are several ways to assure adequate ventilation. One way is through natural or static ventilators, otherwise referred to as vent openings. Most attics have two or more vent openings located so that air can flow in one and out the other.

There are four basic types of attic ventilators: ridge, roof, eave and gable. To determine your ventilation needs, calculate your home's attic floor space in square feet. As a general rule, for every 150 square feet of attic floor space, one square foot of free ventilation space is needed through which air can move.

Horseshoe pitchers think their time may be coming

By Marty Linehan

It happened to bowling. So why can't it happen to horseshoe pitching?

Thirty-five years ago, bowlers, though large in numbers, were still rolling for small prizes in local alleys. Then came television, and the keggers were among the first athletes on the screen to see purses go higher than old-time aerials.

Stars who were known only by other bowlers became household names, and many people who simply had bowled as a pastime started earning good money rolling before the TV cameras.

We may see it happening with the horseshoe pitchers. That once bucolic sport, which was generally limited to back yards and barnyards, seems headed for greener pastures.

Sports Enterprises Inc. of Akron, Ohio, has been organizing for the past year and says it is ready to go into horseshoe pitching in earnest. In two years, it plans to be operating 60-court Horseshoe Palladiums from which daily leagues and regular local, regional, national and world tournaments will be operated.

The company has already bought a building in Akron to serve as a sample palladium. The company expects to offer stock for over-the-counter sales later this year, and to be open for business this summer in Akron. Prize money will be raised from court rentals, league fees and the sale of horseshoe paraphernalia.

The plans include prize money to range from $1,000 for local tournaments and $5,000 at the regional level to a whopping $100,000 for national and world tournaments. There will be more than one national tournament a year.

Donnie Roberts, secretary-treasurer of the National Horseshoe Pitchers Association and national operations director for Sports Enterprises Inc., says, "In two years we should have three or four palladiums. In 10 years, there will be about 125 across the country. Every horseshoe pitcher in the country has his eye on this."

He's looking for the country's 30 million horseshoe pitchers to jump on the bandwagon with all that loot waiting to be picked up. Today the most prominent national and world tournaments offer prizes of less than $3,000 to the winner.

Roberts didn't even mention television, but if the sport really catches on, you know that TV will make a place for it. And if it's a hit on TV, can Super Pitch I be far behind?

We can just see the week before Super Pitch I, with 100 sportswriters for every horseshoe chucker.

Strong Finish Paces Panthers In Wins

A strong fourth quarter coupled with good free-throw shooting added to victory for Round Lake in its regular season finale against Grayslake.

After trailing for the first half, Round Lake won the third quarter before winning the fourth 21-12 en route to a 57-50 victory.

The win gave Round Lake a 7-7 record in the Northwest Suburban Conference, 15-10 overall. Grayslake ended the regular season 4-10, 8-15.

A dunk by Round Lake's Jim Bills capped off a Round Lake run that gave the hosts an eight-point lead. The Rams rallied to trim the gap to four with just over a minute left, but Round Lake stayed ahead, thanks to nine-for-11 free-throw shooting in the final quarter.

Earlier in the week, the Panthers pulled out a 60-57, two overtime win at McHenry. Bills had 22 for Round Lake in that non-conference contest.

Grant Dominates Johnsbury Wins NWSC Championship

by STEVE PETERSON
Sports Editor

On the cover of the Grant High School basketball program there are seven circles, each detailing a stage in the season for the Bulldogs.

The first two - the Harvard Turkey Tournament and the DeKalb Christmas Tournament - have long been history. The third - the Northwest Suburban Conference - became history Friday.

The Bulldogs had an easy time of it in locking up the NWSC crown against Johnsbury, winning an away tilt 86-53. The win gives Grant its first league title since 1981-82. Also, the victory means Grant can now concern itself with the bigger circles on the front of the program: its own regional tourney this week, and possibly the Rockford sectional and DeKalb Supersectional.

The key to Grant's 22nd win in on the season was rebounding. The smaller Skyhawks first tried man, then zone, against the Bulldogs, but Grant kept using its muscle to get second and third shots at the basket. That led to a hot shooting night for the visitors, who at one time made 18 of 22 shots.

The victory gave Grant a 13-1 record in league play, just shy of a team goal of an unbeaten league season.

"I thought we were getting a little caught up in it and a little helter-skelter. But we settled down," Grant coach Tom Maplesaid.

"When we were in a man, we should have been boxing out better. We weren't establishing firm position and they got second and third shots," Johnsbury coach Jeff Lewiston said.

Grant's one-two punch of Don Kiesgan and Ron Richford overwhelmed the Skyhawks. The duo combined for 53 points to match Johnsbury's team total. Kiesgan had 31 points on 13 field goals and five free throws. Richford had 22 on nine field goals and four free throws. Guard Mike Kazlauskis pumped in 12 points.

Johnsbury tried to counter with Ron Szat. The Skyhawks worked the ball into Szat effectively in the first quarter, as Szat scored all of his team's 11 points.

"Szat goes to the basket very well. We gave Kiesgan a little help when he got the ball," Maple said of a defensive change.

That worked, as Szat was held to four points the next three quarters and eventually fouled out.

The game's first turning point occurred late in the first quarter with Grant ahead 14-9. A Johnsbury turnover resulted in a Kiesgan bucket and that sent the Bulldogs on a 7-2 run in the quarter's final two minutes for a 21-11 lead after one.

"We could not let them have any big runs," Lewiston said.

The lead became as large as 16 points early in the second quarter on a Richford hoop. Grant led 40-26 at halftime.

Maple said his forces then put the game on ice at the outset of the third quarter.

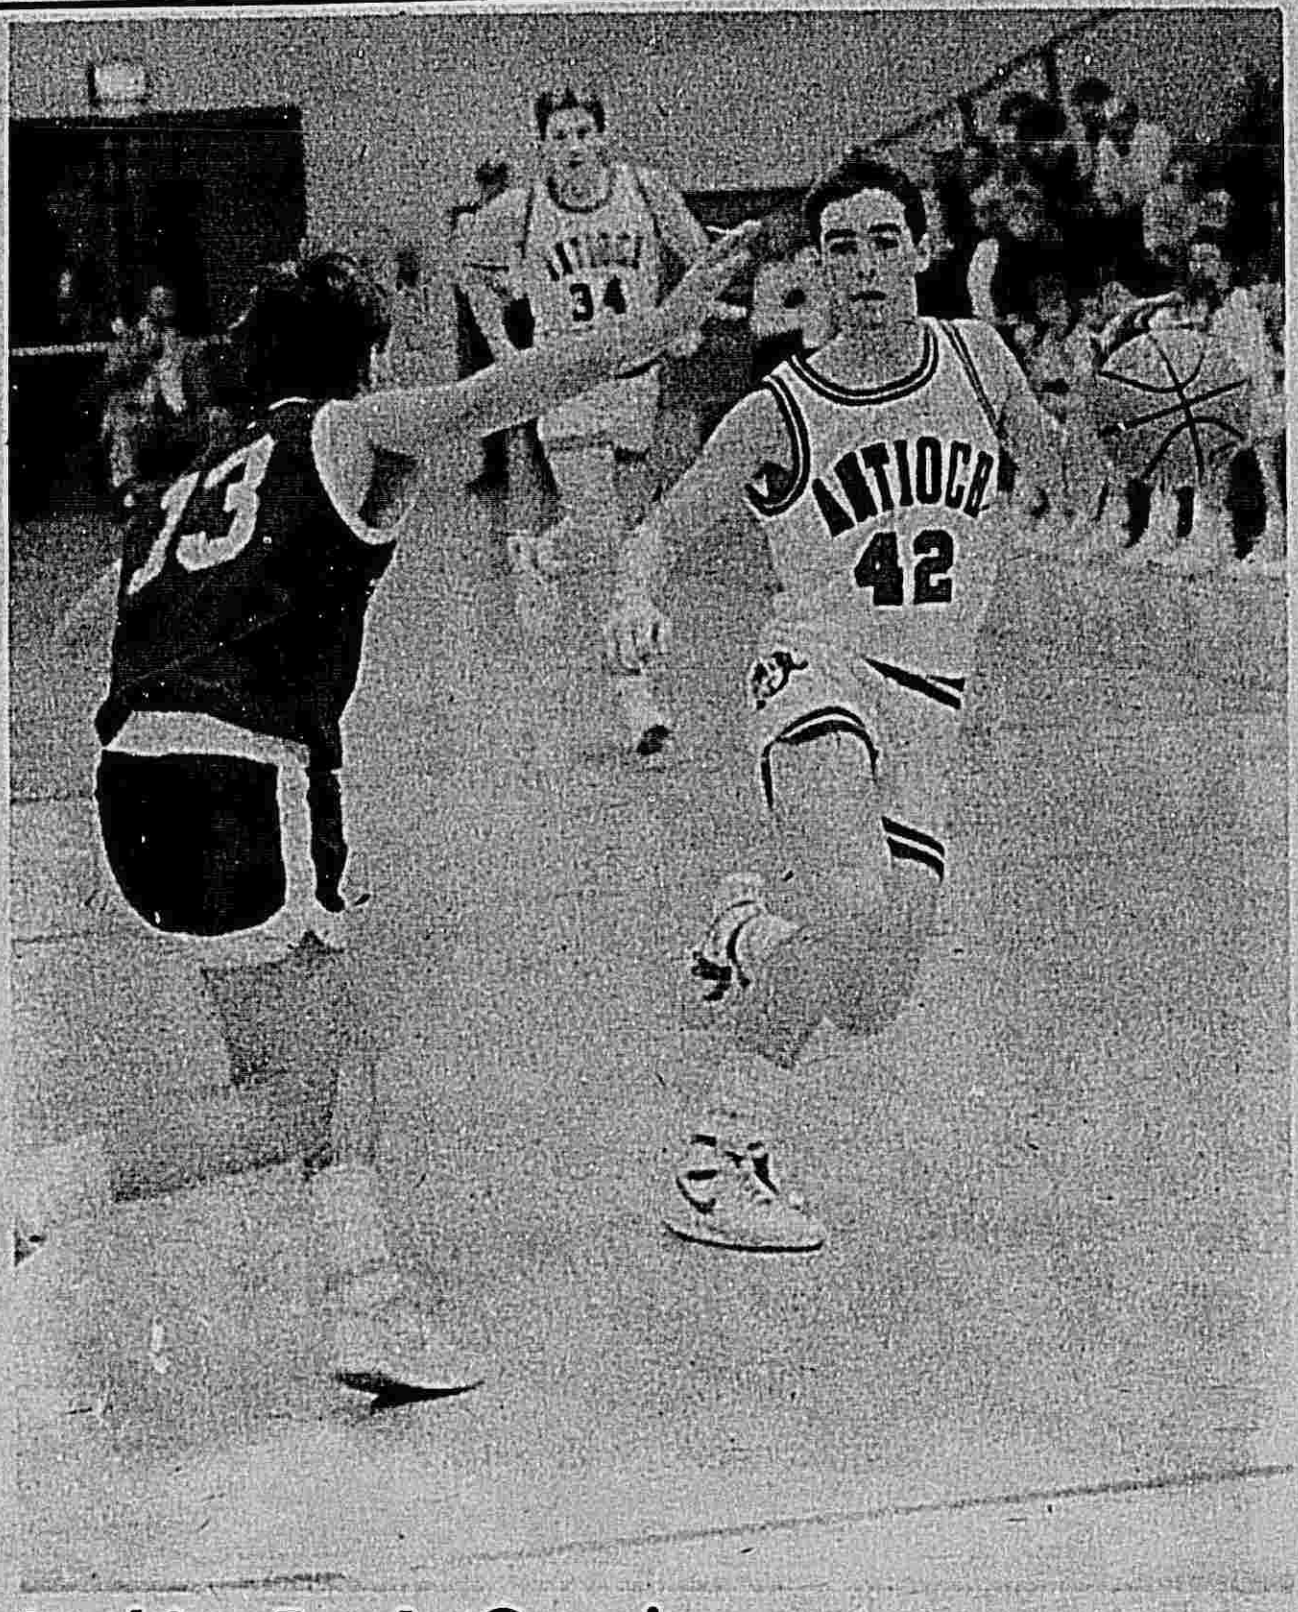

"They've heard it before but I told them at halftime that the first three minutes of the third quarter are vital. If they scored the first six points, they have an 18-point lead and they're not going to lose. If Johnsbury scores the first six points, it is an eight-point game," Maple said.

Carmel Wins Finale

Carmel's basketball team finished the 1986-87 season on a bright note, whipping Holy Cross and securing a third-place finish in the East Suburban Catholic Conference.

The Corsairs kept building on their lead in the regular-season finale, winning 75-53.

The Corsairs finished the regular season 16-9 overall, 10-4 in the ESCC.

McHenry, Rock Valley End Hoop Seasons For CLC Teams

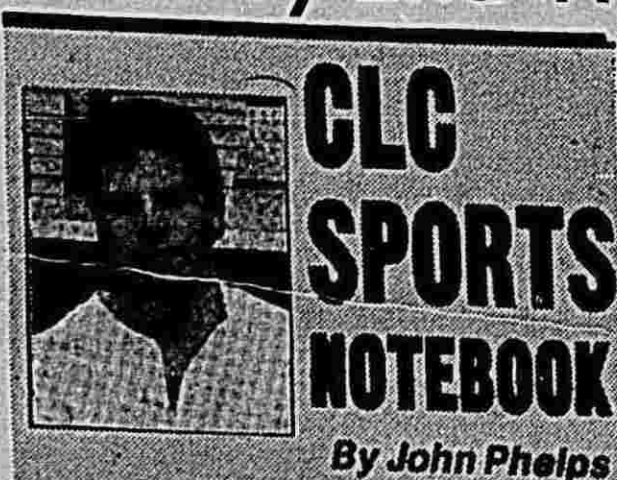

The College of Lake County's men and women basketball teams were ousted in each of their first round post-season playoff games, thus ending the 1986-87 campaign.

On Monday, Feb. 23, the CLC Lady Lancers took on host McHenry, only to come up on the short end of a 71-53 defeat.

CLC looked determined, grabbing a sizeable lead early on and possessing a 32-27 halftime lead. Then the roof caved in on Lake County, as the Scots poured it on in the second half, outscoring CLC 44-21 in cruising to victory. Leading scorers for CLC were Karen Hermann with 24 points, JoAnn Hangebrauck with 13 points and Kelly Halkyard finished with 10 points.

"We played super in the first half, but we could not keep up defensively in the second half," CLC women's coach Chuck Schramm said. Schramm, who has been at the helm of the Lady Lancers for nine years, concludes his final season with a 12-14 overall record, 10-4 in the Skyway Conference. Schramm will be leaving CLC due to obligations at Highland Park High School, but will stay with the program in assisting CLC men's coach Bruce Smith.

Lady Lancer guard, Wendy Christina, summed up the season: "we played well throughout the year for the numbers we had. One of our big problems was inconsistency." Following the very respectable season,

By John Phelps

Hermann had kind words for Schramm: "it was an honor and privilege playing for him, and I'm going to miss him."

The following day, the CLC men hosted Rock Valley in a first-round Region IV playoff game, only to suffer a 85-79 minor upset.

Both teams started tentatively, with the Trojans putting the first points on the board—a three-pointer with 19:18 left in the half. CLC grabbed a 6-5 edge with 15:40 left, then Rock Valley went on a spurt. The Trojans went up by as many as eight points for a majority of the half.

The Lancers woke up late in the first half, coming back to trim the Trojan lead to 28-26. Todd Gordon nailed a hoop with :42 seconds remaining, tying the contest at 28. David Tucker canned a three-pointer at the buzzer and Lake County found themselves with a 31-29 intermission edge.

CLC opened the second half, going up 36-29, but Rock Valley refused to back away. Mike Laman of the Trojans poured in 16 points, all in the second half, for what was probably the determining factor. CLC held a narrow lead until the 9:15 mark. When the visitors pulled ahead 58-57, it was a lead they would never relinquish. Rock Valley went up by as many as nine points, and with the score 72-63, the Lancers began to make a run. The press defense was put into action and Lake County ran off seven straight points, trimming the lead to 72-71.

However, this would prove to be the Lancers' final gasp. Rock Valley obtained a three to seven-point lead for the remainder of the contest.

Terry Wright of Lake County hit a three-pointer with :13 seconds left, but the Lancers found themselves on the short end of an 82-79 Trojan lead. CLC was then forced to foul and the Trojans popped in free throws in that stretch, preserving the eventual six-point win and ending the Lancers' season.

Mark Madden had the hot hand for Rock Valley, pumping in a game-high 38 points. Jim Wad added 26 for the winners. The Trojans, incidentally, lost their following game to Malcom X, ending their season with a 10-21 record.

Tucker led CLC in the losing effort with 24 points, while Mark Kohl added 15. Wright 11, Gordon 10, Dave Sitz eight and Joel Elfering seven.

Lake County concluded the 86-87 year with a 18-13 overall record, and a 9-5 conference mark, good enough for second place with Elgin and Waubesa.

"Laman came alive for Rock Valley in the second half and Madden and Ward has super games. We had a respectable season, but it could have been a little better off down the latter part of the year," said CLC coach Smith.

Individual final statistics for the Lancers had Tucker compiling a 16.9 points a game average, Wright 13.2, Sitz 12.8 and Gordon 9.3. Tucker led the team with 136 total assists, while Sitz grabbed 232 rebounds for a 7.7 average on the season.

In other CLC sports news, the athletic department is sponsoring a trip to see the Chicago Blackhawks take on the New York Islanders. The event is Sunday, March 8. Students, staff, faculty and guests are welcome to the event, which will cost $7. Transportation is included, as buses will leave the CLC gym at 5:30 p.m. For more information, contact the CLC athletic department at (312) 223-6601, ext. 475.

Sequoits Fall In Overtime, Mustangs Win Season Finale

For four quarters, Antioch coach Don Zeman was pleased with the way his team played in the regular-season finale against Stevenson.

But then came the overtime session. That's the time Zeman's forces lost their concentration at the free-throw line and the visiting Patriots outscored the Sequoits 12-4 to post a 67-59 win.

"We missed way too many free throws down the stretch. We missed five one-and-ones, and we had the lead three times," Zeman said.

Antioch outscored Stevenson 22-19 in the fourth quarter to force the OT, but the visiting Patriots dominated the extra session.

The Sequoits finish the regular season at 6-19, 612 in North Suburban Conference action. Antioch is at the Grant regional this week and started with a tough assignment—the favored host Bulldogs. The regional final is March 6 at 7:30 p.m.

"We've been playing pretty well the last month and even though we've lost our last three games, we played well against Stevenson and that's what we were hoping for going into the regional," Zeman said.

Zeman said one of the keys to Antioch's offense was getting the ball to Tom Wells. Wells finished with 21 points to lead the hosts. John Mahnert added 14.

Stevenson led 11-8 after one, 23-18 at halftime. Antioch outscored the Patriots 37-22 in the second half.

Elsewhere in the NSC, Mundelein ended its regular season on a bright note with a 57-49 win at Fenton.

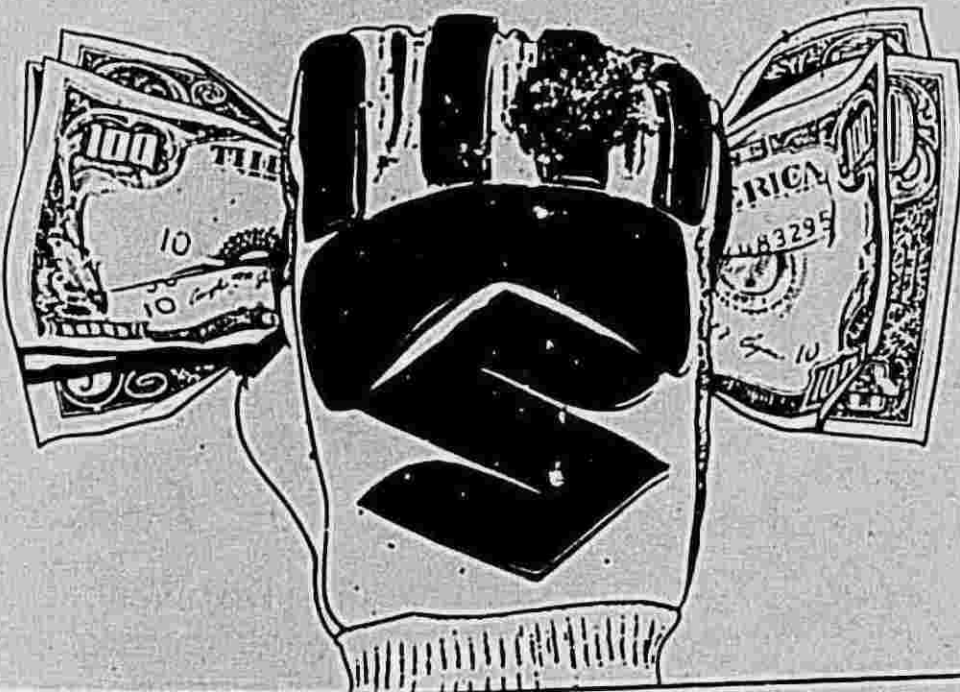

J. T. Mathwig led the Mustangs with 18 points, Brian Kistoffersen added 15 to give Mundelein their second straight win. Mundelein, which is competing at the Carmel regional this week, ended its regular season at 10-15 overall, 8-10 in league play.

Indiana Touts Its Tie To Abraham Lincoln

Indiana, our closest neighboring state, has interesting plans to perpetuate the magic of Abraham Lincoln.

A few years ago we enjoyed a tour of the Lincoln Memorial Trail. It featured that great man's life history from his birth in Kentucky and thereafter his life in Indiana during his formative years, seven to 21. After that he moved to Illinois and ultimately the presidency of the United States during the turbulent Civil War era that plagued our nation. That cooperative, tri-state memorial trail feature no longer exists. Now Indiana has launched a new Abraham Lincoln presentation that will be of interest through the midwest and, in fact, the country.

According to Bill Walters, Indiana's director of State Parks, Lincoln City, the site of Lincoln State Park is the location. Situated 30 miles east of the Ohio River and five minutes from I-64, the park is situated in the general area where the Lincoln family spent their Indiana life segment.

"Young Abe Lincoln" will be a musical drama housed in a new covered amphitheatre capable of seating 1,600 persons. In the $4.4 million structure, the show will run 68 nights per year, Tuesdays through Sundays. Visitors can easily walk to the church and graveyard where Nancy Hanks Lincoln is buried. The presentation deals with the joys and struggles of the Lincoln family as they lived and matured in Indiana. Here part of his formative training was to guide the nation during its troubled years.

For information about this event write Lincoln Boyhood Outdoor Drama Assn., Box 100, Lincoln City, Ind., 47552, or call (812)937-4493.

Director Walters told us that Indiana Parks have had an impressive increase in attendance during 1986... both at lodges and camping areas. Out of state visitors are most heavily represented depending on the closeness of state borders. However, dramas such as this will attract as a destination regardless of residential proximity.

Our stay in the Polawatomi Inn at Pokagon State Park offers lodge and cabin housing along with an extensive camping area. Situated on Lake James, just off the Indiana toll road, the closest community is Angola, in the upper northeast corner of the state. Expanded lodge rooms, meeting facilities and swimming complex has added to the niceties of a magnificent lake view from the 300 seats in the dining room. Our visit has been particularly impressive based on services in the dining room, menu variations, and general smooth running operations instituted by Bob Ballinger, the Inn's new manager.

A highlight of Pokagon Park is its one-of-a-kind toboggan run of some 1,500 feet. Back in service this season after two years of down time, it is breaking all attendance records... equaling the best year in February, with a month yet expected. For more information, call (219)833-1077.

Schaffer Ready

Sen. Jack Schaffer (R-McHenry County) has been appointed to serve on the Senate Appropriations I, Appropriations II, and Finance and Credit Regulations Committees.

The appointments were announced by Senate Minority Leader James "Pete" Philip.

"I am pleased to serve on these very important committees, through which I feel I can best serve my district," Sen. Schaffer said. "For example, about 80 percent of the General Revenue Fund budget goes through the Appropriations II Committee, which deals with funding requests for human services and education. Appropriations I deals with topics such as transportation, state construction, and government administration. I will be able to use my experience in the legislature in the best way by having a voice on this variety of issues."

The senator said that this will be a year of heavy responsibilities for all these committees. The Senate is also scheduled for a rewrite of the school aid formula and a request for funding increases for schools. "It will be a challenging session and I look forward to it," Schaffer concluded.

Sheriff Cracks Down On Gambling Machines

by CHARLES JOHNSTON
Managing Editor

Until last week, electronic poker machines were as common in county taverns as pool tables. But the Lake County Sheriff's Dept., in cooperation with the police departments of North Chicago, Round Lake Beach, Gurnee and Fox Lake, made 21 arrests at drinking establishments on Wednesday afternoon, Feb. 25.

The machines, all labeled "For amusement only," were being used for gambling, with bartenders and tavern owners paying off the rare winners.

The operation, code-named "Vegas," involved 81 sheriff's deputies, 11 North Chicago officers, one Gurnee officer, one Round Lake Beach officer, and two Fox Lake officers. North Chicago Police Chief Ernest Fisher and Fox Lake Police Chief Joe Semasko also participated in the raids.

Using 50 cars and five trucks, the massive county-wide operation began at 2 p.m. and was finished in two and a half hours. All persons arrested were charged with gambling, a class A misdemeanor, with bond set at $1,000. All were either bonded out or released on their own recognizance. Twenty-two poker machines were seized in the raids.

While noting that most of those arrested were "Mom and Pop operations trying to make a few bucks," Lake County Sheriff Robert "Mickey" Babcox said that over $1 million a year is generated in Lake County alone, with a large part being funneled back to organized crime.

Calling the machines a "rip-off," Babcox said they pay out less than one percent of the total amount played. Several detectives underscored that point.

"We spent $300 or more (at one bar) and got only a $1.75 payoff," said Willie Smith, sheriff's department chief of detectives.

North Chicago Sgt. Walter Holderbaum said he went through $100 in two nights. "I could see how it's very easy to lose that kind of money and it's very addictive," he said.

The operation began in January, when the sheriff's Special Investigative Unit teamed with North Chicago police to investigate numerous complaints that both departments had received about the machines. Authorities reported that one irate wife complained that her husband had spent $600 on a machine and wasn't paying the bills.

"I would like to make special note of Chief Ernest Fisher of the North Chicago Police Dept., who was involved in 'Operation Vegas' from the onset," Babcox said.

Investigators went to taverns and played the machines. North Chicago detectives fanned out around the county and sheriff's deputies played in North Chicago. The switch was made to avoid any of the investigators being recognized.

Lake County State's Attorney Fred Foreman will empanel a special grand jury to continue the investigation of organized crime in Lake County. "This is a long-term investigation," he said. "Subpoenas will be issued to get at the ownership of the machines. The owners of the machines, we suspect, were sharing in the proceeds and had knowledge that gambling was going on."

Besides the gambling charges, owners of the 17 establishments may find difficulties with their liquor licenses. Fisher said that in North Chicago, police will recommend at least a suspension of liquor licenses. Other villages are expected to follow suit.

Babcox said all business and tavern owners in Lake County should take warning. "Anyone who continues to break the gambling laws will be getting more than their fair share of police attention and continued arrests will be made. As long as I am sheriff, I will not tolerate the presence of the 'outfit' in Lake County," he warned.

Fox Lake Police Chief Joe Semasko expanded on that warning. "Not all these machines are paying off," he said, "but every owner who keeps them in his establishment can expect a lot of attention to be paid by the police. The smart ones will just get rid of them."

As of Friday, many tavern owners had taken the warning to heart. Lakeland Newspapers took a ride around to various establishments and found empty walls where poker machines had been displayed prominently before the raids.

Those arrested were

Pamela Ann Nottingham, Christine Ann Skelley, and James Franklin Tevot of the Gurnee American Legion; Carmen Koenemann and Kathryn Elaine Overheu of Sarsaparilla's Pub in Grayslake; Barbara Jean Langley of North Chicago; Marilyn Jenny Halter of Nell and Teeny's in North Chicago; Janet Marie Cullum of Any Port in a Storm in North Chicago; Charles J. Jordan of Bud's Two Two in North Chicago; Joyce Nadine Saxon and John Edward Wenzel of Drift Inn in Ingleside; Laurie Marie Chessel of Tiny's Tavern in North Chicago; Carol May McKinnon of the Amvets in Round Lake Beach; Sherrie Jean McEvoy of the Flamingo Inn in North Chicago; Marylou Geraldine Briseno and William Charles Fox of Bill and Junes' Tavern in North Chicago; Jeff Allen Vesecky of Doc's Landing in Antioch; Patricia Mary Banas of Pat and Andy's in North Chicago; Michael Joseph Buta of O'Houlligan's Pub in Fox Lake; Robert Howard Casey of Casey's Corner in Waukegan; and Lorraine Mae Aker of Fritz's Corner in Zion.

THIS WEEK'S HOROSCOPE

Weekly Tip: New ventures are favored.
Aries (Mar. 21-Apr. 19) You soon get word on a request made some weeks earlier. Use the information you've gathered in the meantime to shed more light on sticky areas.
Taurus (Apr. 20-May 20) Enhanced communication comes out of a recent trip and leads to deeper understanding between you and the others involved in a new opportunity.
Gemini (May 21-June 20) One part of yourself is ready for a new venture; the other part isn't so sure. Resolve the impasse by insisting on having more information.
Cancer (June 21-Jul 20) Real estate assumes much importance in your immediate future. Make cautious moves unless and until you're certain you know what to do.
Leo (Jul 21-Aug. 22) Look for ways out before you plunge into a situation that can take you to a dead end stop. Have back-ups to rely on if you need to make plans quickly.
Virgo (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) A former associate continues to provide much needed guidance as you make plans for a new venture. Expect some delays as family matters take time.
Libra (Sept. 23-Oct. 22) A pest from the past threatens to cause problems that involve some of your best friends. The truth is always your best weapon. Use it well.
Scorpio (Oct. 23-Nov. 21) Expect changes in relationships. A friendship soon takes on more romantic overtones. A domestic situation leads to confirmation of loving feelings.
Sagittarius (Nov. 22-Dec. 21) Your aspects favor firm action. Make it clear that your emotions are not to be toyed with. Demand, and you'll receive the respect you deserve.
Capricorn (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) A change in diet may be all you need to get over a health problem. Your doctor can advise you. You may also need to rearrange your priorities.
Aquarius (Jan. 20-Feb. 18) Good news. Stay alert from petty quarrels over unimportant matters and you'll soon emerge from a confused situation more in control.
Pisces (Feb. 19-Mar. 20) In spite of intentions to remain uninvolved, you'll be making plans in your life for someone whose past friendship soon develops into a new romance. © 1987, McNaught Synd.
